The National Sunday School Assembly in Session.

Improvements Since Last Year—Things Meteorological—The Attendance—Pittsburgh and Vicinity well Represented—The Programme thus far—The Prospects for Future Sessions—Notes in General.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

FAIR POINT, August 6, 1875.

We enter to-day upon the fourth day of the Assembly, and are thus pretty fairly settled down to work. The visitor to Chautauqua this year, in comparing the presen appearance of the camp with that of last year, must be agreeably gratified to observe that has been around since the last gathering. There is yet a great deal to be done before Fair Point can take its place,—so far as artificial attractions go,—with the noted camp-meeting grounds of the country. But if the managers here do as well each year as they have done last, it will not be long before their work will be completed. There has been great outlay this year, and the money seems to have been judiciously spent. Notably, all the avenues have been improved, which adds materially to the pleasure of a saunter around this Summer town in the woods. Then over a dozen new, and, for the most part, neat and substantial cottages have been erected. The Point—the favorite resort for promenaders, where one can view the ever-shifting panoramic scenes on the lake—has been laid out in flower beds and gracefully winding walks, and fitted up with an abundance of rustic seats, under umbrageous trees, to accommodate weary pedestrians. There has also been added to the attractions there a summer house, from which a magnificent view up and down the lake may be had. The Point is further graced with the new Oriental house, which is a very pretty model, and a splendid object lesson. Down stairs they have the book store, and up stairs is fitted up after the style of an Eastern harem. A large representation of modern Jerusalem takes up some space at the Point also, and attracts hundreds of visitors. It is enclosed in a circle about 20 feet in diameter. Palestine also has been improved and looks even better than it did last year. The old platform in the circle has given place to a handsome and substantial new structure, commodious in size, painted white inside and out, surmounted by a large gilt cross. It shows in front, in beautiful lettering the inscription, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple; Let all the earth keep silence before Him." The seats in the auditorium have been planed and painted, and their number has been increased so that comfortable seating accommodations are now provided for about three thousand five hundred people. Mention also ought to be made of the Egyptian pyramid, built on the hill, and a very accurate miniature representation of the ancient Tabernacle, which is a feature of the ornaments and "object lessons" on the ground. The improvements, in fact, in all directions are noticeable, and evidence a spirit of genuine enterprise on the part of the managers. Evidently they had made great preparations for the Assembly, and they were deserving of sympathy when Jupiter Pluvius seemed to frown upon their undertaking.

The Spirit of Improvement

Meteorological.

It does not seem, however, to have been such a long wet spell here, as was the case in and around the Iron City. There was, in fact, but little moisture here, until last Saturday, they say, but when the dampness did come, it came in torrents. Saturday, Sunday and Monday and the greater part of Tuesday the rain beat upon the devoted camp and there was every prospect for a deluge, that even the enthusiasm of Sunday school workers would even succumb to. However, a few of the hardy ones put in an appearance on Monday, others followed on Tuesday and that evening the opening service was held in the Tabernacle on the hill, in which about 2,000 persons participated. The rain was falling still. There was a superabundance of mud every where, and that with the rain above and the soggy soil beneath the prospect was not brilliant and the facilities indulged in at the opening services, regarding the showery state of affairs outside, seemed rather too much like whistling to keep one's courage up in a cemetery. Wednesday morning another shower added to the general depression, but the sun sent in a few golden arrows from his quiver in the afternoon; these were the heralds of better things for the rain came not again, and under the genial warmth of the sunshiny day yesterday the camp ground became as habitable as one could wish it to be.

If the rain only holds off now the Assembly, at least in point of attendance, will certainly be a success beyond every expectation. On Wednesday there were fully a thousand people more than on the same day last year and there have been fresh arrivals on every boat since that. A fair estimate of those now on the ground would be about three thousand five hundred. That, of course, will not correspond with the figures of some of the eminent statisticians here to whom a thousand more or less is of no account, but I think nevertheless it is a fair calculation. Four-fifths of them were out in the auditorium last night, and it was not full. Still, the crowds keep coming in and the attendance will likely yet be more than double the figures given above. The second week last year witnessed the greatest outpouring.

Personnel of the Gathering.

A peculiarity of the attendance this year, at least it struck me so—is the large representation from other than Methodistic ranks. The Presbyterians really, so far as my observation extended, seemed to be pretty fairly dividing the honor as to numbers. For instance from Pittsburgh and vicinity I counted last night seven Presbyterian ministers and only four Methodist representatives of the cloth. The proportion of laymen, however, was just about the other way. Pittsburgh is well represented here this season. Among those whom I have noticed were the following: Hugh McCune, Rev. Dr. B. F. Brooke and wife, R. B. Mansel and wife and Rev. T. N. Boyle, Monongahela City; J. A. Kunmer, Rev. W. D. Slease, Rev. W. H. Kincaid, H. J. Heinz, Miss Jennie C. Simpson, Miss Lib McClaren, E. G. Comingo, Miss N. C. Dickinson, Gen. Wm. Blakeley, wife and daughter, G. M. Alexander and daughter, G. E. North and wife, Mrs. C. B. King, Allegheny; Miss Lulu Baird, Monongahela City; Capt. Wm. McClelland, O. N. Payne and wife (Butler), Edward Houser, Rev. R. R. Moore and family, Rev. Dr. J. T. Cooper, Rev. E. S. McKitterick, John Dean, Frank Armstrong, of Allegheny; Rev. J. D. Herr, Rev. Mr. Milligan, Prof. B. C. Jillson and wife, Mr. Haines. T. K. Cree, Captain Haslett, Miss McCleland, Mr. Thomas McCance, Miss Bessie Mercer, Miss Pressly, Rev. Dr. Hodge and others. Some of these are stopping at Mayville but come to the camp every day. The majority, however, are settled here.

In addition to this list there are others whose faces, but not names, are familiar. It is pleasant to note that the Iron City, one of the leading cities of the land in Sunday school work, is thus worthily represented.

The Services.

And now as to the services thus far, comparing with last year, I really wish I could say more in praise in this direction than can be honestly said. We have had three evenings and two full days now, and yet there has been little that has been up to expectations. To use an apt commercial expression, the programme thus far has been but "fair to middling." That is, it would have done well enough for an ordinary assemblage, but for a national gathering, when it is supposed the richest fields have been gleaned, what we have had thus far is not a good commentary on the talent interested in the Sunday school or church work. First, on Tuesday evening there was a "Chautauqua Reunion," the old assemblymen fraternizing with the new. There were half a dozen speeches, but none of them were particularly bright except, perhaps, that of Rev. Dr. Hodge, of Allegheny, who talked of "Christian Union." His address was not overloaded with humor but it was a strong, brotherly speech, full of good sense. The sensation of Wednesday was "Laying-around-loose Eggleston, of Brooklyn." He got that name during the Beecher trial, and it fits him to a T, for both physically and mentally he seems put up on the limber order. He is of medium height, slightly stoop-shouldered, careless in his dress, and belongs to the shaggy beard and browsy haired school of prophets. He talks in an easy, colloquial style—at the rate of about 175 words a minute—that's what the phonographers say. His theme was the "The Paradise of Childhood"—in other words, the Kindergarten. He displayed a pretty thorough knowledge of his subject, but throughout his address there was an affectation of "liberal" views,—which consisted in giving a slap at orthodox things at every opportunity, and a flippancy of style,—that detracted much from the lecture. As long as he stuck to his text—the education of the Kindergarten system he was appreciated; outside of that the feeling was the other way,—so much so that when one of the speakers, Dr. Randolph of New York, yesterday afternoon took occasion publicly to dissent from his "slurring utterances," there were numerous and hearty responses of approval of Randolph from the audience. Aside from Eggleston's address, there was nothing of special interest that day—there were several address, but no "great gems"—very little indeed above the commonplace—unless it was a brief but thoughtful address in the evening by Dr. Parsons, of Massachusetts, on "The Whole Church in the Sunday School." Yesterdan (Thursday) J. B. Tyler, Secretary of the National Presbyterian Sabbath School Association, made an admirable address—generally voted to be the best thing on the programme thus far. Denominational pride would make me say differently if it could be fairly said. The theme was "Church Training and Work in the Sunday School," and it was handled tersely, appropriately and suggestively. In the afternoon Rev. Dr. Warren Randolph, of Brooklyn, read a report on the "International Lesson System." It was very good, but has been in print for several weeks, as it was read before the International Sunday School Convention in Baltimore. That took the interest out of it.

A Praise Service.

In one respect, however, the present assembly even thus far is ahead of its predecessor, and that is in the line of music. It would be hard to do better than last year, but it seems it can be done. Last night, for instance, the music was brought out, and the evening was principally given up to a praise service. There was a brass band, a quartette choir, a trio, Prof. P. P. Bliss and his wife, a piano and a select choir from the audience, to make the music, assisted by the audience, and the whole under the supervision of one of the most accomplished of musicians, Prof. W. F. Sherwin. There was music for everybody, and it was really grand melody. It was the first meeting at which there was anything like the enthusiasm of the former Assembly. Probably it is the presage of the rule in the remaining days of the Assembly. I judge it is for on looking over the programme for future meetings, I find that Dr. Vincent seems to have been reserving at least some of the best of the wine for the middle and last of the feast. To-day for instance Mrs. Emily Huntingdon Miller, of Chicago, the great authoress and poetess, Rev. Justin D. Fulton, of Brooklyn, and Frank Beard, the caricaturist, are "down" for performances; to-morrow Theodore Cuyler, of New York; next week Dr. Hatfield, of Philadelphia; Miss Francis E. Willard, of Evanston, Ill.; Rev. Dr. Perrine, of Michigan; Miss Hattie Morris, of Brooklyn; Madame Kriege and her daughter, who are at the head of the Kindergarten system in America; Rev. M. Buckley, D.D., of Connecticut, one of the wittiest of platform orators; B. F. Jacobs, the great Baptist Sunday school worker of Chicago; Mrs. Dr. Knox and Miss S. W. Clark, Rev. Richard Newton, of Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. C. H. Fowler, Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, of New York; Rev. Dr. J. M. Reed, Eben Tourjee, President Grant, Vice President Wilson and other lesser lights are to come. This programme certainly, so far as distinguished names can go, is formidable and fully equal to last year. The auguries are favorable now, and perhaps next week it will be possible to write in the highest laudatory strain of everything.

What is to Be

I ought to say a word in regard to one very pleasant feature here, and that is which prevails. The people are remarkable in this respect especially among the old Chautauquans. Perhaps the better accommodations this year on the camp ground helps to better good humor. Whatever may be the inducing cause, it is, socially, about as near perfection as a public assemblage could well be. Nearly everybody says so, and what nearly everybody says must be true.

BUFFALO, August 8.—The weather at Fair Point yesterday was pleasant and the attendance very large. The Sunday school was the largest on record. Addresses were made by Revs. Dr. Pierce, J. S. Ostrander, H. M. Parson and others.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

A Crevasse Above Island No. 10—A 3,000 Acre Plantation Inundated—Planters Working on the Levees.

MEMPHIS, August 8.—The river continues to rise at this point, and has risen one inch during the past twenty-four hours. Captain Crane, of the Belle Memphis, reports a crevasse formed at Willis' plantation, at Donaldson's Point, just above Island No. 10, on Friday night, which spept over the plantation, containing about 3,000 acres, and thence to the St. Francis Valley. This doubtless caused the river to come to a stand here yesterday, and not the crevasse at Bradley's, as at first supposed. A large volume of water is now running through St. Francis river, which will afford relief to the plantations on the Mississippi side to Helena, but greatly increases the danger on the Arkansas side, and planters on that shore between here and Helena are working on the levees in the rear to protect their lands from the inundation threatened from that direction. The water now stands four inches below the flood of last spring, and two feet four inches below the great flood of 1867. As a decline of one inch is reported at Cairo to-day, old steamboatmen predict that the flood will not exceed that of this spring.

Bold Assassins.

OMAHA, NEB., August 7.—At Elkhorn, Nebraska, this morning, a crowd of men, assembled in quiet conversation, were approached by two men, named Kane and McIlro, the latter carrying a shot-gun, loaded with buck-shot. When within range, at the word "fire," given by Kane, McIlro shot into the crowd, seriously wounding Mr. Dungmond, proprietor of the Phillips House, his son, and Charles Baldwin. The assassins immediately jumped on horses and fled. The cause of the shooting is supposed to be an old grudge against Baldwin. Mounted men, well armed, are in pursuit.

The Laws to be Enforced in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, August 7.—Governor Kellogg has addressed a circular letter to the Sheriffs of Caddo, Catahoula, Franklin, and one or two other parishes of North Louisiana, where a number of murders and other deeds of violence are reported to have recently been committed, directing them to call in the aid of the better class of citizens to bring to justice the perpetrators whose acts continue to give a bad name to the State, whereas in all the other parishes the laws were enforced and peace and prosperity prevailed.

Marine News.

NEW YORK, August 7.—Arrived—The steamships Germanic and Wisconsin from Liverpool.

PLYMOUTH, August 8.—The steamer Wieland, from New York, has arrived.

NEW YORK, August 8.—Arrived—The steamers City of Chester and the Queen, from Liverpool.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 8.—Arrived—The ship Gen. McClelland, from New York.

The Texas Cattle Trade.

OMAHA, August 7.—It is estimated that the number of Texas cattle driven into this State this year will amount to over 100,000. They are mostly held by cattle raisers along the line of the Union Pacific Railroad from Kearney Junction to Sidney. 40,000 of the number driven in this year have been sold. Large numbers will be shipped east this year through this point.

Beecher's Vacation Sermon.

TWIN MOUNTAIN HOUSE, N. H., August 8.—The first of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's vacation sermons was delivered this morning to a very large audience. He defined Morality and Spirituality, avowing his belief in the importance of both. He discussed their relative values, and declared the latter as well as the former to be indispensible to salvation.

The Kentucky Election.

LOUISVILLE, August 7.—Returns from fifty-six out of the one hundred and sixteen counties in the State give McCreary, Democrat, a gain of about 1,000 over the vote of the same counties for Leslie in 1871.

Business Failure.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., August 7.—The Northampton Anchor Tape and Webbing Company has failed. Liabilities, $30,000.

THURSDAY afternoon, a serious accident occurred at the quarry of P. M. & J. Brown, Summerhill, resulting in the fatal injury of one man, and two others being seriously hurt. It appears that a man whose name we did not learn, and who came from Gallitzin only recently to the quarry, was engaged in tamping a blast in the rock with an iron bar. The sparks that were struck by the instrument ignited the powder, and an explosion followed, the bar tearing out both eyes of the workman, and injuring him beyond the possibility of recovery. Another employee named Jacob Popp, who was standing in the vicinity, had one of his hands nearly torn off, and was otherwise badly hurt, and still another, named Joseph Callahan, had one arm fractured, and was injured about the head in a serious manner.—Johnstown Tribune.

MESSRS. GATES & VAN ALLEN, lessees of the Vulcan Iron Works, Meadville, are now actively pushing business and seem to be of the class of men to make a success of whatever they undertake.

SECOND EDITION

THE ARSENAL EXPLOSION.

Two Boys Killed and a Number Injured,

Carelessness the Cause of the Disaster.

FRANKFORD, PA., August 7.—At 9:20 this morning an explosion occurred at the arsenal at Bridesburg, which resulted in the loss of two lives, and the wounding of many others.

The explosion took place in the laboratory.

The Casualties.

The following are the casualties: Killed—McLaughlin, a lad 15 years old, killed by a splinter six inches long and one inch thick entering his left side; Ziler, aged 16 years, had his thigh fractured. Wounded—William McMullin, William Deal, Edmund Shields, Albert Leiler, Wm. Butler, Charles Darden, Howard Irwin, Jos. Meger, H. Jacobs, John Land, Joseph E. Vansant, Emmett Sheppard, James Muir, Edwin Thomas, H. Altemus, F. Plotz, William Stoneman, R. Willits, H. Steager, Johnny Butler and W. Hopkins.

The explosion occurred in a building 20x40 feet, situate in the northwest corner of the arsenal yard. It was used for breaking up ammunition. Thirty boys were working in it at the time, picking powder out of rifle cartridges, from which the balls had previously been taken.

Carelessness the Cause.

The explosion was the result of carelessness. The boys had been each warned not to touch the cap on the top of the cartridge, but while one of the boys was picking, today, he struck one on the top, which ignited a lot of others, killing Daniel McLaughlin and George Ziler. Four or five boys were severely burned, and seven or eight considerably but not dangerously wounded. The building had an iron frame with the roof and sides in sections, so that if one side was blown out it would not affect the rest. It was demolished, with the exception of two or three sections, which were pulled down to prevent accident.

Emptying Cartridges.

The work being prosecuted at the time of the accident was the emptying of a lot of rifle cartridges. This operation consists of three parts. By means of a nipping machine the bullet is deftly removed; next the cartridge is placed in a sieve which revolves over a tank of water, into which the powder falls.

In many instances the powder is found to be caked from corrosion, and to remove it the third process is necessary, which is conducted by boys. A case of 300 cartridges is given to a youth, who, with a dish of water before him, picks the powder out of the casing by means of a piece of wire.

The fulminate, of course, remains in the cartridge, and as to its explosive quality the boys have been often cautioned.

At the time of the explosion 80,000 cartridges were in the place, each, on a fair average, being half full of powder. That more boys were not killed was simply owing to the command of Foreman Cole, who, seeing the first cartridge go off, ordered all the boys to run. The force employed generally consists of thirty-one boys with a foreman, but to-day only twenty-eight were at work.

Frightened Boys.

The ages of the boys range from fifteen to twenty years, and they all reside in the neighborhood of Bridesburg and Whitehall. Most of them were so frightened that they never stopped running until they reached their homes.

The father of the boy McLaughlin is an enlisted soldier and on duty at the Arsenal. Capt. Prince and Lieut. Blunt have been appointed as a committee to investigate the cause of the explosion

Some Facts About the Arsenal.

The Frankford arsenal is located upon a plot of ground five miles from the State House, and containing 62 acres and 82 square rods, and is situated at the confluence of Frankford creek and the Delaware river, in the Twenty-third ward, Philadelphia. The western front of the property is on Bridge street, the principal thoroughfare leading from Bridesburg to Frankford. The northern boundary is the Tacony road, the eastern the Delaware river and the southern the Tacony creek.

The buildings on the property consisted, before the explosion, of two three-story brick houses with capacity for four offices; two-story brick barracks with capacity for one hundred single men, and two buildings with quarters for twelve enlisted men and their families; eight large store houses, principally of stone and brick; twelve frame laboratories; a magazine with a capacity of 1,000 barrels of powder; a hospital containing four beds, a dispensary and quarters for the matron; a large fire-proof machine shop of brick and iron; a large rolling mill of the same material, office, guard-house, proving-houses, stables, ice-houses, &c.

The Frankfort arsenal is "a magazine of military stores," and is, from its location and the nature of its products, one of the most important of the military posts in the United States army. Here is manufactured all the fixed ammunition for small arms for the whole army. Here also are made all the instruments of precision, inspection and verification, such as standard gauges, scales and weights, calipers, scales of proportion, &c., in use in the various Government shops throughout the country, and the production of these requires the employment of the most highly skilled mathematical and scientific instrument makers. Here also was commenced the manufacture of the great Woodbridge gun of steel and bronze, which weighs twenty-two tons, and is being made as an experiment, at a cost to the Government of nearly a quarter of a million of dollars. To the rigid inspection of the officers of this arsenal are submitted all improvements in small arms, fixed ammunition, new explosive agents, &c., proposed for adoption by the Ordinance Department.

Former Accidents.

Since the establishment of the arsenal it has been remarkably free from serious accidents, fires or other disasters. On November 5th, 1861, an explosion of fulminating powder occurred in one of the buildings, by which Patrick Coney and Joseph Nail, the only men in the building, were instantly killed, and a soldier, named F. Belhart, lost a leg. The building was entirely destroyed. It was never known how the explosion was caused, as the only men who could have told were the two who were killed. In 1868 the authorities at the arsenal were much annoyed by river thieves, who came up the Delaware in a boat and carried off pig lead from one of the store-houses. One night they were seen by the guard and fired upon, and one of the number was killed, which effectually put a stop to the robberies.

Probabilities for To-Day.

For New England, the Middle States and lower lake region, generally clear weather will prevail during Monday, with a slight rise of temperature, light southerly to westerly winds, and no decided change in barometer.

The Ohio river will fall at stations above Evansville, and has probaby reached its maximum height at stations below. The Mississippi will continue to fall at stations above Cairo, and will remain stationary or fall slightly at Cairo. It will rise slightly at Memphis and Vicksburg.

The Flood in Indiana.

TERRE HAUTE, August 7.—The breaks and damage on the Vandalia line have been repaired, and all trains will run regularly without transfer, beginning to-morrow night. The Ohio & Mississippi road has lost its Wabash river trestle opposite Vincennes. The back-water of the Wabash is over the Evansville Railroad track south of Oaktown, breaking communication. The Wabash has fallen two feet, and is now twenty-three feet above low water mark. The Evansville, Terre Haute & Chicago Railroad will run trains between here and Danville, Ill., regularly on Monday, and will go through without transfer on Tuesday. The weather is now favorable, and farmers are hopeful of saving half of their crops.

The North Carolina Election.

WILMINGTON, N. C., August 8.—Returns received during the past two days leave the result of the election still in doubt. Both parties claim a majority of the delegates. Several extreme western counties are not yet heard from. It is not probable the majority will exceed two either way.

National Methodist Camp Meeting.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., August 7.—About fifteen thousand persons are attending the National Methodist Camp Meeting. Among the arrivals to-day was President Isaac I. Lansing, of Clark University, Atlanta.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The $47,000 Treasury Bobbery

Several Persons Under Arrest.

A Treasury Clerk Implicated.

The Government Income Last Year Larger than the Estimates.

The Pension Roll Decreasing.

WASHINGTON, August 7, 1875.

The $47,000 Robbery.

On Thursday, a detective of this city returned in company with Theodore W. Brown, commonly known as "Peleg Brown," arrested at Saratoga, charged with being concerned in the larceny of the $47,000 Treasury package on the 2d of June. This afternoon the prisoner was brought before Judge Wylie, on a writ of habeas corpus, but the Judge declined to discharge or release him on bail, for the reason that the warrant was from the Police Court, and that court had no jurisdiction.

A telegram has been received from New York, stating that B. F. Halleck, a clerk in the Treasury cash room, on leave of absence, was arrested in that city to-day on a charge of being concerned in the larceny. Halleck, while in New York, visited jewelry, tailoring, dry goods, carriage and harness establishments, making inquiries as if he intended making large purchases.

This afternoon Wm. H. Ottman, a restaurant keeper, was arrested charged with being implicated in the larceny. The detectives feel confident that they have the right parties, and are sure that a portion of the money will be recovered. The friends of Ottman are making efforts to have him released on bail, but the authorities demand bonds to the amount of $100,000 for his appearance. Halleck was recently promoted to Assistant Shipping Teller in the cash room. He is a native of New York, and has been employed in the department about eight years. Brown was discharged from the Quartermaster General's Office about a year ago on account of testimony on the trial of Slatter, for the murder of Hussey, derogatory to his character. Ottman is the proprietor of a restaurant on Penn avenue, where Brown had rooms. It is expected other arrests will be made shortly.

Halleck arrived to-night. On the road to this city he attempted to throw away a memorandum book, but the officers secured it, and upon examination it was found to contain the figures $47,097.65, the exact amount of money contained in the stolen package. These figures had been erased with a lead pencil, though they had been divided by two, and the quotient, $23,548.82½, remained untouched. Another entry on the same page read "$9,870, saved to show W. H., August 5, 1875." Halleck gave several conflicting statements in regard to these entries, but finally admitted that he attempted to throw the book away, as the figures in it would secure his conviction. The figures above mentioned leads the officers to the belief that he divided the money equally with another person.

It is said to-night that one of the parties arrested has made a full confession. While the parties do not deny this, they decline to admit the fact, though they say there has been some talk, and the public may rest assured the right men have been secured. None of the money has as yet been recovered, but they have strong hopes of getting a good portion of it soon. All arrested are locked up, none of them having been able to furnish the bail ($100,000).

The Printers' Troubles.

A number of journeymen printers, under authority of the Typographical Union, have accepted the employers' terms of fifty cents per thousand ems for general composition and forty cents per hour for time work, and the strike may now be regarded over.

The Government's Income for the Last Fiscal Year.

is larger than any estimate made and more than realizes the expectations of the Treasury officers.

WASHINGTON, August 8, 1875.

Pensioners.

The Pension Office states the number of pensioners on the rolls, on June 30, at 228,634, a decrease of 4,871 for the year. The money paid was $1,250,000 less the past year than the previous year.

SEASONABLE SPORTS.

The Regatta at Toledo.

The Duquesnes of Pittsburgh Win the Four Oared Race.

The Toledo Regatta.

TOLEDO, August 7.—The river was in better condition for the races to-day than at any time during the regatta. The first race was the Senior six-oared shell. Wah-wah Sums of Saginaw, the Detroits and Excelsiors of Detroit, and the Undines of Toledo started, the Wautagos and Zephyrs of Detroit having withdrawn. A good start was made. The Excelsiors took the lead and kept it nearly to the turn, when the Wah-wah Sums drew up and the two turned the stake about the same time. From the turning point to nearly the finish they kept about even, when the Wah-wah Sums spurted and crossed the line about half a length ahead, winning the race in 19:18 2-5; Excelsiors 19:21.

Next came the Junior single scull race. Four started, viz.: Standish of the Excelsiors, of Detroit, Barnard and Montgomery of the Chicago Scullers, and Alexander of the Wah-wah Sums. They kept pretty even to the turn, when Montgomery took the lead, increasing it all the way down, crossing the line five lengths ahead. Time 20:50 1-5; Standish second in 21:12.

The four oared Junior was the next race, in which ten were entered. Seven started. A good start was effected. The Amateurs broke an outrigger half a mile out. The Farraguts lead to the turn, when the Sho-Wae-Cae-Mette's of Monroe, Mich., took the lead, and kept it to the finish, winning by three lengths. Time 20:48; Farraguts second and Excelsiors third.

Next came the four-oared open to all race. Seven were entered and five started. The Spring Lakes and Excelsiors were drawn. The Duquesnes of Pittsburgh took the lead at the start. The Excelsiors and Scullers drew out before reaching the turn. The Duquesnes crossed the line first. Time 19:31 2-5; Wah-wah Sums second in 19:52½, and Undines third in 21:30.

Proposed Sculling Match Between Morris and Biglin.

BOSTON, August 7.—Parties in this city offer to back Eph. Morris, of Pittsburgh, in a race for a thousand dollars a side against John Biglin, of New York, over the Charles River course, three miles, for single scull, and the championship of the United States. John Shea, in behalf of Morris, made a deposit of two hundred dollars to-day.

The Races at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, August 7.—At the races in the Driving Park to-day Goldsmith Maid defeated American Girl and Huntress. Time 2:17¾, 2:18, 2:19 1-2 and 2:20. American Girl took the first heat and the Maid the remainder.

BEAVER, UTAH, August 7.—The jury in the case of John D. Lee, charged with being the leader in the Mountain Meadow massacre, reported to-day that they were unable to agree, and were discharged. It is reported that they stood as follows: Nine for acquittal, and three (one Gentile and two Mormons) for conviction.

Suspected Foul Play.

CINCINNATI, August 7.—There has been a growing suspicion here that the four young Cincinnatians, whose bodies were recovered from the river, and who were supposed to have been run over in a skiff by the tow boat My Choice, were really the victims of foul play. The bodies when recovered were found horribly mangled about the face in an almost similar manner. The theory advanced was that this was done by the barges they struck, but this is now discredited. Of all their effects, consisting of $800 worth of jewelry, guns, finger ring and watches, nothing was recovered but an empty trunk and a little dog. Besides this, the pilot of the tow boat says the skiff was empty when the boat struck it. There are two whisky boatmen who appeared to know all about the parties, who got the skiff after the collision, forced its locker, and took out an iron and a tin box, and knives and forks and other articles, and then sold the skiff for three dollars. It is on the authority of these men that the drowning theory rests. The matter will probably receive a thorough investigation.

Demoralization in the Police Force.

At a stormy session of the Police Board yesterday, General Smith declared the demoralization of the force steadily increasing, and no effort made to stop the tendency. A bond of union, he said, seemed to exist between the members of the board for the purpose of defeating any measures calculated to improve the morality and efficiency of the department.

Smith alluded to Commissioner Matsell personally, as editor of the Police Gazette, which was organized as a school for thieves and the best text book for young villains he ever saw.

Kent against Archibald Baxter & Co., New York shipping merchants. The grain on these vessels, valued at $40,000, was sold by Kent & Co. to Baxter & Co., a few days ago, the latter agreeing to pay cash, but failed to keep their promise.

A SENSATION STORY.

An American Vessel Said to Have Been Captured Twenty-six Years Ago on the Chilian Coast, and All the Crew but One Massacred.

LOUISVILLE, August 7.—Some weeks since an article from a New Orleans paper was extensively published throughout the country, to the effect that the crew of the schooner Florida, which sailed for California from New Orleans in 1849, and supposed to have been lost with all on board, had been discovered on an island in the Southern Pacific by an English vessel, which had been driven thither by continued storms. The crew stated that the Florida had been wrecked on this uninhabited island twenty-six years ago, and that in the interval they had not seen a human face. They declined, however, to leave the island, having established themselves in comparative comfort. The narrative was said to have created a great sensation among the surviving relatives of the crew, and an effort was stated to be on foot to fit out a vessel which should visit the island.

The Courier-Journal will publish an interview with a gentleman to-morrow, who was living in Valparaiso, Chili, in 1849. He states that the Florida put into port. There was a famine at that time in the Chilian penal settlement; that the convicts boarded her, massacred all of the crew, except a young man, named Maricum, and made sail for the main land. On her way she was recaptured by a Chilian war vessel and brought into Valparaiso, where the Courier Journal informant got the above details from Maricum's own lips. Maricum, whose parents are still living in Versailles, Ky., proceeded to California, where he soon after died of small-pox at Placerville, in that State. The British steamer Thetis had first seen the Florida after her capture by the convicts, and gave the information to the Chilian authorities, which led them to send out the vessel which brought her back into port. A revolution was in progress in Chili at the time, and the records of the event may be lost, but the full details were on the log-book of the Thetis, which may be examined in the office of the British Admiralty.

Two Colorado Desperadoes Killed.

DENVER, COL., August 7.—Several days since a breach was effected in the Denver city jail, through which a number of prisoners escaped. All had been recaptured, except Evan E. Hall, W. Wilder and Harry Leighton, at a region fifty miles southwest. Last night they were decoyed into a corral, where they expected to obtain horses provided for their escape. They were fired on by ranchmen, Leighton pierced by several balls. Hall was also wounded and died in a few hours. Wilder was also shot, succeeded in escaping, and is still at large. All three were of the worst class of desperadoes. Hall had been sentenced to ten years for murder, and the other two were under indictments for similar offences.

GOLD closed in New York Saturday at 113⅜.

BRIGHAM YOUNG is probably happy, since the Mountain Meadows jury failed to agree.

NEW YORK is very properly agitated over the frightful mortality among the children of that city. The per centage of deaths for the past week is positively alarming, and active measures are being taken to ascertain the cause of the very unusual number of deaths.

THE New York World devotes an editorial to the "Democratic Distress" in this State over the Gubernatorial nominations. It seems to think that McClure, the Patriot, and other solid and substantial Democrats and papers have not been acting just on the square. We are surprised that it deals so gently with our neighbor in this city.

THE explosion at the United States arsenal at Bridesburg, near Philadelphia, is a very distressing circumstance, owing to the serious loss of life that attended upon it. The accident occurred in the laboratory, and was the result of pure carelessness on the part of an employee, and he has atoned for it with his life. The institution has heretofore been managed with great care.

THERE seems to be a vast deal of maneuvreing going on between Tilton and Moulton, to get into position to do Beecher harm. Moulton is reported to be in consultation with his old friend and adviser, Ben. Butler, to ascertain if he can prosecute Beecher for perjury in New Hampshire, because of his affidavit of a year ago, in reply to the notice of suit. It certainly seems that the result of the great trial hurt others beside Beecher and friends.

IT SEEMS that there has been a reaction in Chicago over the postoffice question, and Mullett stands justified now, and Potter condemned. A committee of experts have re-examined the Custom House building, and declare it sound and right, and recommend that work be proceeded with. Thus the round of popular opinion has been fully made. It is declared, however, that the work will remain suspended till Congress orders a full investigation.

MUCH interest begins to be taken at the East, in developing methods whereby the working classes may be secured insurance, at cheap rates, both on their household goods and the lives of the parties. It is noticed that they do not usually have policies; and in case of fire, the goods are a total loss; and in the event of the death of the head of a family, the family is left to suffering and want. The difficulties in the way of reaching the class referred to are, that they are of ten irregularly employed, and the payments are too large for them to readily make. A plan is being developed to provide for weekly payments, and to otherwise adapt our existing systems of insurance to the circumstances of the masses.

THE case of Lynch, convicted of murder, seems to have been disposed of. The papers in his case were received by Sheriff Hare on Saturday, and he has been placed in the Western Penitentiary to undergo imprisonment for life. At first thought this might seem to be a sufficiently discouraging prospect, yet Lynch, through counsel and friends, has been steadily working for this very result. It is evident that, having succeeded so far, he has hopes that after a time an appeal can be made that will result either in having the number of years of imprisonment fixed, or in absolute pardon. There is a vast deal of sympathy expended on the criminal classes—at times wisely, and often unwisely—and if a well-prepared appeal can be made, a further exercise of sympathy can be relied on.

IN HIS article detailing the inside history of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, "Mack" fully states what we hinted at, that the trial was a mere farce. That is, it was very promptly discovered, after the article of impeachment had been presented, that if Mr. Johnson were put out of the office, Ben. Wade, who would succeed him, would be harder to manage, and more dangerous than Johnson. Wade regarded Johnson's impeachment as certain, and began to talk freely to all comers as to what he would do when he succeeded to the Presidency. His talk defeated impeachment, and kept him from the Presidency. It was known that he lacked executive qualities, but when, to this, it came to be added that he proposed a mischievous line of policy it was thought better that impeachment should fail, than to have Wade President.

THE New York Tribune is palpably annoyed that Mr. Greeley's editorial, favoring an interconvertible 3-65 bond, should have been discovered and placed in contrast with its present views. It lamely seeks to break the force of the fact by claiming that Mr. Greeley's interconvertible plan involved the payment of interest in gold. Really this is a distinction without a difference. We presume Mr. Kelley would gladly accept that amendment, to have his plan adopted. The strength of the Greeley, as well as the Kelley, plan was in the interconvertible phase of the affair. We do not regard the plan as of much value, so far as practical operation is concerned, but there is no substantial difference between the one and the other,—Mr. Greeley and Mr. Kelley. The Tribune further illustrates, in its correspondence, that there is a large and growing element who seek to reach specie payments through expansion, rather than contraction. These several things prove rather annoying to that changeful journal.

OUR late Minister to Vienna, John Jay, has taken to writing letters on the Centennial question. He doubts whether Russia, Italy or Greece will take part in the Centennial, but does not give the reasons for this doubt, except rumor. He also suggests that our tariff is an objection that will prevent foreign exhibitors from taking interest in the affair. As we understand it, duties, where articles are not sold, will be remitted for all that is sent to the Exposition. At all events, Congress, we think, will readily make this concession to foreign exhibitors. But to remit the duty, and allow the free sale of goods, would seriously disturb our markets and cause a large run in foreign goods on our market. The trouble with a number of foreign manufacturers is that they seek to use the Centennial to break down our tariff system. At best, this is impudent, particularly as arrangements will be made for articles exhibited to be freed from duty. We certainly do not see, as Mr. Jay professes to do, that our system of laws should be modified to suit the interests of foreigners, in order to secure their presence.

THE O'CONNELL CENTENNIAL.

The celebration of the centenary of the birth of Daniel O'Connell, was largely attended and imposing in Ireland, but was attended with occasional disorder. The Fenian element objected to the prominence assumed by the Lord Mayor, and would not allow him to read the speech prepared by Lord O'Hagan. So in the evening the regular toasts were broken in upon, and the wildest disorder reigned for a time. All this was simply attributable to the heat of partisanship prevailing in Ireland. The Fenians regard themselves as the regular successors of O'Connell,—in that they seek the same ends that he labored for, but by different means. He agitated by voice and influence, peacefully, and within the law, opposing force, and trusting to the power of persuasive agitation. They believe in the use of force, having no faith in the power of mere verbal agitation, and thus, have developed repeated uprisings. The essential purposes of both were alike. Hence the Fenian element felt that the celebration of the Centennial of its hero, belonged to them. With the usual bad judgment of the order, they brought out a banner covered with chains, suggestive of the condition of Ireland under English domination. The other element was the Church. O'Connell had spent his life in the service of Roman Catholicism, and very naturally the dignitaries of that Church desired to have a part in paying honors to his memory. The claim of the Church to participate in the celebration was certainly as well established as any. The dying agitator directed his heart to be sent to Rome, as a testimonial of his devotion to his faith, and his life had been devoted to the work of securing Catholic emancipation and equality. Yet even here there was a lack of prudence. The attempt was made to put forward Ultramontanism, and Liberal Catholics felt themselves insulted. The authorities and general public claimed the right to join in the celebration, because O'Connell was a public official,—once Lord Mayor of Dublin, and member of Parliament,—and was a representative Irish orator. Thus the incongruous elements attempted to join in the public demonstration, and disagreement and disorder was quite certain to ensue. Fortunately, the disorders did not extend to violence and bloodshed, as was very generally feared.

In this country, naturally and properly, the observance of the Centennial was more quiet and orderly. No one felt under compulsion to participate, and only those joined to celebrate his memory who felt specially drawn to it, by love or national ties. Thus in the various cities of the country, his memory was appropriately honored,—not generally by processions, but by meetings, orations, banquets and toasts. The oration of Wendell Phillips, at Music Hall, Boston, was the grandest tribute rendered by any orator to the genius and character of O'Connell. There is a striking similarity between Phillips and O'Connell, in that both had splendid oratorical powers, and both were determined agitators. Of course, Phillips is all admiration for his hero. This is what he has to say of the one disputed feature of O'Connell's character, his personal integrity:

> Now, he owed this to the integrity of his life. He never shut his eyes on the wrongs of one race to vindicate another. When the Chartists came he gave them a vote; when the Dissenters came he gave them a vote; and when the anti-Slavery party came he gave them a vote. When Kossuth came to this country, he went down to Faneuil Hall, and said: "There is a flag without a stain; there is a people without a crime." We said to him: "Oh, Kossuth, son of the Magyar, come to break the chains of Hungary, have you no word to say of four millions of negroes bending under a bondage twice as bitter as that of Hungary?" he said: "I will praise anything, I would forget everybody to help Hungary." Well, O'Connell never said that. [Applause.] When I was at Naples I met Sir Thomas Buckstone, who hated the Irishman heartily. When I went up to him I said: "Was O'Connell the scamp that Harriet Martineau painted him?" Taking both my hands in his, the old giant, looking down on me, said: "Scamp! He was the honestest man that ever entered the House!" And then he told me this story: Said he: "When O'Connell entered the House he had one other vote besides his own—two on the Irish question. At that time," said Buckstone, "the anti-slavery cause was so poor that there was only one other member besides myself who spoke on its behalf, and that was Dr. Lushington—Dr. Lushington who is just dead—and we made an agreement that when Lushington spoke I should cheer him, and when I spoke he should cheer me. [Laughter.] They were the only cheers we got. [Renewed laughter.] At the moment when O'Connell entered the House there were twenty-seven members who went to him, whom we used to call the 'West India members,' because they always voted for slavery. They said to O'Connell: 'At last you are in, and have got two votes. Now, if you will never go down to Freemasons' Tavern with Macaulay and Brougham and the anti-slavery society, there are twenty seven votes for you on every Irish question. Should you do that, count us your enemies.'" Suppose he had been an American, he would have said: "That is a big thing. I guess I will let the negro slide." [Great laughter.] "But," Buckstone continued, "O'Connell said to them: 'Gentlemen, God knows that I am here in the cause of the saddest people that the sun sees; but may my right hand forget its cunning, and may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, when, to help Ireland—even Ireland—I forget the negro for one single hour.'"

Probably no man ever lived who exerted a more powerful influence over the minds of the masses. He is credited by Mr. Phillips with every attribute of oratory. "Webster could address a bench of judges; Everett could charm a college; Choate could delude a jury; Clay could magnetize a Senate; Tom Corwin could hold the mob in his right hand; but no one could do more than that one thing. The wonder of O'Connell was that he could out-talk Corwin; he could charm a college better than Everett; delude a jury better than a Choate, and leave Clay himself far behind in magnetizing a Senate; I have heard all the majestic orators of America, who are singularly famed on the world's circumference. I know what was the majesty of Webster; I know what it was to melt under the magnetism of Henry Clay; I have seen eloquence in the iron logic of Calhoun; but all three together never surpassed, and no one of them ever equaled, the great Irishman." This was the secret of his vast influence. He wielded a magic influence over the Irish mind, and in this stood alone. No man could vie with him in popular oratory. And with this he united himself with the masses, plead their cause, and struggled for their elevation. For thirty years he has quietly slept in his grave, but eloquence is immortal. To-day the name of O'Connell is a charm to the Irish race, and his eloquence and devotion command the admiration of the world. The Centennial just observed, proves it.

IN an address to the colored people of Chillicothe, Ohio, last Monday, Prof. John M. Langston, of Washington, said that when the Democratic party shows itself worthy of their support, the party relations of the colored people will no longer be defined by color lines. At present, however, the duty of the colored voter in Ohio is to support the Republican candidates. Referring to the advice recently given the colored people by ex-Governor Scott, of South Carolina, Prof. Langston said: "Gov. Scott may be assured, first, that the colored American will attempt no independent political organization, proffering his vote to the Democratic party upon the terms suggested by him. Nor, in the second place, is it possible to play upon his fears in such manner as to scare him into the Democratic party for the sake of gaining succor when defeat overtakes the Republican party. Whatever others may do, whatever may be their course, as yet the colored American finds no just cause for pursuing any other course than that adopted heretofore and to which he has persistently adhered."

A TERRIBLE WALK.

A Pedestrian Followed Through the Woods by a Cougar.

As a test of nerve, the recent experience of a wayfarer, traveling a wood road near Olympia, Washington Territory, was as remarkable as any on record. The man was a speculator, looking up wild land, and he trudged through the forest, following the almost unused path formed by an old road made by pioneers in the wilderness. His mind was devoted to one subject—the critical examination of the kind of trees upon the land about him, and of the character of the soil, and he failed to notice for some time a "pit-a-pat" upon the dead leaves near him. He at first scarcely looked down, when he felt something rubbing against his legs, and heard a slight purring sound, but when he did look his heart came up to his mouth, and a cold sweat started as suddenly as though he were suspended by a weak rope over Niagara. Pressing itself softly against his legs, twining about him as he walked, moving its flexible body swiftly, but with never a sound, turning up fierce eyes with something almost like a terrible laugh in them, was a huge cougar! No chicken was this man in the woods, but his account of the manner in which his hat was raised by his hair is not to be considered as apocryphal at all. Sleek and supple and muscular the beast glided about, and at intervals it would come closer again, and press its body against the legs of the man, the light touch making goose-flesh of every inch in his form. It was a terrible experience, that interview with the cougar in the forest primeval, and it was well for the man that his nerves were of the kind to do honor to a frontier adventurer. Steadily pursuing his course, with steps that would falter a little occasionally, he kept on, and with him the beast continued its treacherous gambols. At times it would glide a few paces to the front, and roll over and over in the road, and wait for the man to come up, and then it would circle around him again until the impulse, almost too strong to be resisted, would come upon him to spring upon the brute, opposing fists to fangs, and ending the intolerable suspense at any risk. The movements of the terrible animal were but as the playing of a cat with a mouse, and the man knew it. The moment came, at length, when the strain could be borne no longer, and the man kicked desperately at the beast as it passed him. In an instant it bounded in front and crouched for a spring, growling hoarsely and showing its teeth. The man stopped and shouted hopelessly for aid, while the cougar did not spring at once, but appeared waiting to gratify its humor a little longer. The shout, fortunately, was not in vain.

There were hunters and dogs in the immediate vicinity, as rare fortune would have it, and the hounds dashed suddenly from the covert, as the cougar, seeing them, leaped for a tree. A few minutes later the beast fell a victim to bullets, and the man with whom it had taken a stroll was telling his story and trying to restore the normal condition of his nerves by internal applications from a small flask. It was one of the episodes which turn men's hair gray—one which would, doubtless, have brought death to a man with less nerve than the hero of the affair.

A DREADFUL PRACTICE.

The Murder of Children in India.

There is, perhaps, no form of crime in India more common than child murder. The practice prevailed when first the province of Bengal passed into the hands of the British, and it flourishes with scarce abated vigor at the present day. Open at random the "Decisions of the Nizamut Adawlut"—the Supreme Court of Criminal Judicature—and at brief intervals will be found such cases as these: In Cuttack a woman draws a child aside, takes the silver bracelets from her arms, and flings the little victim into a tank, on the surface of which the body is found floating a few days afterwards. In Behar a man strangles a boy nine years old, for the sake of his silver bracelets and gold ear-rings, and throws the corpse into a sugar plantation. At Moorshedabad, Chamoo robs a child aged five, and drops her into a deep and rapid part of the river. At Benares a fellow entices a boy twelve years old into his house, and there cuts his throat in order to get possession of his silver bracelets, while a friend looks on and mildly expostulates, but neither seriously interferes nor gives information to the police. Another takes a neighbor's son into the fields, under pretence of helping him to fly a kite, and there strangles him with his waistcloth, and strips him of the trashy trinkets with which he was adorned. Yet another conducts a boy, aged nine, to witness a religious procession, but passing near a ditch suddenly throws him down, partially strangles him, tears the silver ornaments from his arms and feet, and flings him into the ditch, which is fortunately dry, and where he is found before life is quite extinct. By the promise of a melon, Leela inveigles Debee Dee, seven years of age, from his father's house, brains him with a hoe, and buries his turban and trinkets in a field, leaving the body where it had fallen, and where it was found by the anxious father. This murderer, like the others, on being charged with the crime, at once confessed his guilt, but pleaded as an extenuating circumstance that he was prompted by an evil spirit. A woman holds a little girl under water until she is drowned, the temptation being a silver collar the weight of two rupees. Two women one evening ask a child eight years old to come to them on the morrow for some fruit, and, when she eagerly arrives, the one holds her while the other passes a rope around her neck and pulls it till the breath has fled. The body was speedily found in the midst of some tall grass near the house, and the spoils consisting of a silver collar weighing four rupees. A woman of Tipperah was engaged in cooking her food, when, according to her own account, a child not above six years came toddling up to her, and a voice sounded in her ears bidding her strangle her little visitor. Thereupon she seized the child by the throat and the darkness passed away. So she dug a hole in the floor of her house and laid the body therein, after taking off the few valueless ornaments.

BROWNLOW ON JOHNSON.

How He Stood on the Alta Vela Question.

[From the Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle.]

In one respect, at least, ex-President Johnson was a model statesman. He was honest. Whatever men have said of him politically, no responsible man ever called his unflinching integrity into question. He was in public life almost half a century, yet no man can say that he ever betrayed the confidence of his friends by taking that which did not belong to him. His character in this respect was so well understood that he was scarcely, if ever, approached by a dishonest lobbyist with a corrupt proposition. This is one of the principal reasons why he was always so strong with the masses. His personal integrity always gave his political policy special weight, and thousands relied upon him without giving questions much investigation, knowing his personal incorruptibility. He was very scrupulous in refusing to give any sort of aid to enterprises which he could not conscientiously approve. Just after his election to the United States Senate, in January, he gave an illustration of this. A prominent politician from Pennsylvania, representing a company interested in the Alta Vela Isles, wanted him to send a war vessel to the above mentioned islands just before the great impeachment trial commenced. He attempted to make use of what he considered Mr. Johnson's embarrassment at the time in accomplishing his object. But the President spurned him, and gave him to understand that the official sanction to measures in which private parties are interested was not to be procured in that way. He always had a policy of his own, taking decided grounds on all public questions, and was never swerved from his purposes deliberately formed by the desire for personal gain. By exercising frugality he saved sufficient from his earnings through a long public life to place him above want, but was not wealthy. What he had was justly his own, and he came by every dollar of it honestly. This trait in his character is worthy of emulation by all public men. His boundless success is evidence that the American people appreciate honesty in their rulers, and that when they find such they will reward them with their confidence and support.

Wholesale Discovery of Forgotten Villages in Syria.

Some geographical discoveries of considerable importance not only in a scientific, but also (for the Ottoman Treasury) in a financial point of view, have been recently made in Syria in the shape of a host of villages whose very existence was unknown or had been forgotten. No fewer than seventy-nine of these hapless hamlets have been unearthed in the single district of Damascus, besides about an equal number in other parts of the province, by Medjeddin Effendi, the defterdar of the vilaet, who has been devoting his time and energies to the exploration of old official registers. He is still, it is stated, busily employed in prosecuting his researches, and it is strongly suspected that a number of other unknown villages in the Hauran will be dragged to light. This is more pleasant for the Government than for the villagers, who would doubtless have been well content to have remained in humble obscurity, "the world forgetting, by the world forgot." There is something very captivating in the idea of a secluded town or village, far from the busy haunts of men, unmarked in any map, and whose inhabitants, escaping all the annoyances of imperial taxation, having only those local burdens to bear that they have fitted on their own shoulders.—Pall Mall Gazette.

POLITICAL NOTES.

THEY are calling Thurman "Mr. Facing-bothway."

THE Massachusetts State Republican Committee have decided to hold the State Convention at Worcester on the 29th of September.

THE Buffalo Courier thinks that Senator Thurman is in pretty much the same situation which Senator Schurz was in after the Cincinnati Convention.

THE Prohibition party in Philadelphia have decided to hold a delegate election on the 17th instant and a convention the day succeeding, for the purpose of nominating a full city ticket.

GEN. HAYES put the Republican platform in terse form. "Our motto," said he, "is honest money for all and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will destroy the one and no sectarian influence which will destroy the other."

THE Miners' National Association of Luzerne county offers to cast the votes of all its members for the party which will give it four offices. Modest, and at the same time novel, is it not? Would the acceptance of such a proposition be a violation of the new Constitution?

IGNATIUS DONNELLY'S Convention met in Minnesota last week, and adjourned till September 22. They made no nominations, probably because there were not enough to fill out an entire State ticket. Mr. Donnelly thinks the September meeting will put out a ticket which will revolutionize the State.

THE Tunkhannock Republican, which has always advocated prohibition in preference to Republican principles, does not think temperance men have anything to gain by voting against Hartranft, and therefore recommends a hearty support of the Republican ticket.

THE Cincinnati Commercial says General Cary will be ready, after this campaign, for a few lines from the famous poet, G. Wash. Childs:

Lay his waxen hoofs together,
Fold his large and spreading ears
He has gone to join his hee-haw
To the music of the spheres—
Gone to get his silver mine.

THE prospect of having Mr. Randall Speaker of the next House of Representatives does not please the Utica Observer. It calls him an "inflationis, Protectionist, a back-payster, and a salary grabber," and says: "He is not only out of accord with the great body of the Democracy on issues of vital importance, but he lacks the essential qualification for leadership—honesty. While that miserable scheme was in progress for robbing the tax-payers of $2,000,000 and dividing it among Congressmen in the name of back-pay, Mr. Randall made himself offensively prominent. On one occasion he provoked the thieves to laughter by telling them that he never heard of but one man who refused to take all the salary he could get, and that man was left at home by his disgusted constituents."

THE Erie Gazette says: "There are unmistakable signs that the Republican party is gradually recovering from the reverses suffered at last year's election. Here in Pennsylvania, where it was defeated by the failure of a large number to vote at all, the feeling appears to be excellent. The party is thoroughly united in support of its nominations. Some few who have been Republicans may be led away by the Prohibition ticket, but the number is not likely to be so great as that of the Republicans who voted for Buckalew in 1872, and thus counted directly against us. There is no doubt that the great bulk of the Greeley men prefer Republican to Democratic ascendency in the State. Those who profess to understand the political situation express the fullest confidence in Hartranft's election next November."

PERSONAL.

IT is stated that Mr. Moody will be present at the grand camp meeting tournament at Martha's Vineyard on the 24th inst.

THE eldest son of the Crown Prince of Prussia has been made a lieutenant of the Guards by his august grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE will assume the part of a poet in the September number of Scribner's. His effort will be called "Alma Mater's Roll."

JOHN D. LEE, whose trial for participation in the Mountain Meadows massacre has excited much interest, was formerly a citizen of Randolph county, Ill. He married a Miss Woolsey, at Kaskaskia, in 1833.

IT is a remarkable fact that, while not one ex-President is living, the wives of five of them survive—Mrs. Polk, Mrs. Fillmore, Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. Lincoln, and Mrs. Johnson. Of these ladies, one is insane and another at the point of death.

THE Rev. Dr. James Richards, whose sudden death in Edinburgh has been announced, was appointed last Spring by the Legislature of West Virginia as its agent to represent the attractions of that State to the emigrant societies of Europe.

ATTORNEY GENERAL EDWARDS PIERREPONT, accompanied by Jesse Grant, son of the President, arrived at Long Branch Friday, over the New Jersey Southern Railroad. They were met at the depot by the President, who drove them in his carriage to his cottage.

MAJOR EVAN R. JONES, United States Consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne, has written a series of sketches of President Lincoln, General Grant and Mr. Edwin M. Stanton. These sketches, understands the Athenæum, will form a history of the great struggle in America, and will soon be published in England.

SENATOR MORRILL, of Maine, was presented during the late session of Congress with $500 by a New York firm as a token of their appreciation of his action in a matter affecting their business interests. Mr. Morrill returned the money by the next mail, intimating to the mercantile gentlemen that he was not that sort of a Senator.

STEINBERGER, Prime Minister, and the King of the banana country, are said to have quarreled, because Steinberger refused to annoint his Majesty's royal corpus with cocoanut oil every morning, or rub him down or groom him. When last seen the King was after his Prime Minister with a kotty club war club five feet long. Steinberger was making for the coast.

MR. GRIMWOOD, the Chicago reporter who accompanied Donaldson on his fatal voyage, was betrothed to a young lady in Lockport, Ill. Some days ago she received a dispatch saying that Grimwood had landed safely five hundred miles east of Montreal. Without a doubt that the news was genuine she joined with her friends in all manner of rejoicings, only to learn a day later that she had been made the victim of a cruel jest. It is said that the perpetrator of the fraud is known and will be properly punished.

OUR ex-Presidents are, in this generation, not remarkable for length of years. Except Fillmore and Buchanan, no one of our Presidents have reached the allotted three-score-and-ten. Before Polk and after Washington, not one, except Harrison, who died aged 68, left the world at less than 73. The series is noteworthy. Washington died at 67, but John Adams lived to 91, Jefferson to 83, Madison to 85, Monroe to 73, John Quincey Adams to 81, Jackson to 78, and Van Buren to 80. At this point a signal change occurs. Polk died at 54, Taylor at 60, Fillmore at 74, Pierce at 65, Buchanan at 77, Lincoln at 56, and Johnson new passes away at 67. The first ten of our Presidents averaged 77.8 years of life. The next seven averaged 64.7 years.

THE Memphis Board of Aldermen have adopted eulogistic resolutions on ex-President Johnson.

A DISPATCH from Knoxville, Tenn., states that Judge Trigg, of the United States District Court, has granted Waddy Thompson a writ of habeas corpus.

DURING a recent tornado in Minnesota two sheep were carried fully a mile by the wind, and finally landed in a tree top, where they were founded pinned together by a board that had been driven through their bodies.

THE American rifle team, it appears, will come home with $150,000 which they have earned by the perspiration of their guns. From this it would seem that target shooting is a more profitable sport than base ball; and as, in addition to that, it will kill off the fools quicker, it ought to be encouraged.

SOLOMON PAREIRA, a pawn broker of Cincinnati, started out last Thursday, leaving his wife and daughter in charge of the shop. They each took chairs and sat on the pavement near the front door, and while sitting there, a thief entered the rear part, and, although the gas was burning brightly, he succeeded in getting from $8,000 to $10,000 worth of jewelry out of the open safe and escaping. The loss was not discovered until Friday.

A DISPATCH from the White Mountains says there is a rumor in the hotel in which Mr. Beecher is stopping that Moulton has been in consultation with General Butler, and that the result of the consultation is a partially perfected plan to bring an action against Mr. Beecher, in that county, for perjury in swearing to the reply in the Tilton suit, last year, at Middleton. Mr. Beecher has introduced into the hotel the feature of morning prayers, which will be continued during the time he remains.

A FEW days before Lord Cornwallis arrived at Yorktown, he and his army encamped over night on the farm of a young widow by the name of Lane. When the lady arose in the morning the army had disappeared, and under the large oak tree in her yard, where Cornwallis had his tent, she found a curious tumbler made of horn, and a long-necked bottle half full of wine. They were preserved as interesting relics. The bottle was broken some time ago, but the tumbler has recently found its way into the Virginia State Library.

THE DEAD MARCH.

BY MARY T. LATHROP.

[Dedicated to the Womens' Temperance Union.]

Tramp, tramp, tramp in the drunkard's way
March the feet of a million men.
If none shall pity and none shall save
Where will the march they are making end?
The young, the strong, and the old are there
In woful ranks as they hurry past,
With not a moment to think or care
What is the fate that comes at last.

Tramp, tramp, tramp to a drunkard's doom
Out of a boyhood pure and fair;
Over the thoughts of love and home
Past the check of a mother's prayer.
Onward swift to a drunkard's crime,
Over the plea of wife and child,
Over the holiest ties of time,
Reason dethroned and soul gone wild.

Tramp, tramp, tramp till a drunkard's grave
Covers the broken life of shame,
While the spirit Jesus died to save,
Meets a future we dare not name.
God help us all, there's a cross to bear
And work to do for the mighty throng;
God give us strength, till the toil and prayer
Shall end one day in the victors' song.

JUDGE WOODWARD'S WILL.

The Disposition of His Property.

The will of the late Judge Woodward has been admitted to probate in the Register of Wills' office in Philadelphia. This document was made at Lexington, Ky., July 27, 1874, and bears the testator's signature alone, the names of no witness appearing. In it the late Judge omits all provision for his wife, "not from any insensibility to her kindness and affection, but because she possesses an estate in her own right, and by ante-nuptial agreement we voluntarily renounced all interest in the estate of each other." The will then provides for the following legacies:

To each of his grand-children, and each of his sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, $5,000.

To his three daughters the sums placed in the hands of Stanley Woodward and J. Pryor Williamson, as their trustees, and in addition he gives to his daughter, Elizabeth Scott, $12,000, invested in her dwelling house in Franklin street, Wilkesbarre; $5,000 invested in State Insurance Company's stock, and a legacy of $10,000, to be settled upon her for her sole and absolute use.

To his daughter Lydia he gives, in addition to former advances, the sum of $25,000, with power to dispose of it by will.

To his daughter Mary H. Williams he gives an additional $10,000, for her sole use.

To his son Stanley he devises a house and lot on Washington street, Wilkesbarre, and, in addition to former advances, $5,000.

To his son George he gives his gold watch, "Constitutional" cane and $10,000.

To his sons John K. and Charles Francis he gives $10,000 each, and whatever of his estate remains after the payment of the aforesaid legacies he gives to his four sons, share and share alike.

He appoints his son-in-law, E. G. Scott, and his son, John K. Woodward, as executors.

Donaldson's Children.

We have already stated a performance is proposed for the benefit of the children of Donaldson, the lost æronaut. It has been suggested that these children should have a legal guardian appointed over them who would see that whatever is raised for them is properly applied. The children have been boarding in a family in the city, and we understand that Donaldson had fully paid their bills up to the time of his death. Of course a few hundred dollars raised by a benefit would only last a short time even if disbursed by a careful manager of the fund. The case of these children is one which should interest the charitable as well as those officially authorized to take cognizance of such matters.—Rochester Express.

Peach Business Overdone.

The peach business is being ruinously overdone in New York even thus early in the season, and if the trade continues to forward the fruit to the market on the same indiscriminate scale as we are now witnessing, it will be difficult to effect sales at any price. That is the opinion of disinterested parties who were standing looking on at the wholesale slaughter at Washington and other markets. For selections the best price that could be had, was fifty cents per crate, and "as they run," 10 to 35 cents. As it costs 30 cents per crate to lay them down here, the profitableness of the business, as at present conducted, is at once apparent.

VERDICT
In Favor of Howe's Standard Scales.

We, the undersigned, comprising all the wholesale Butchers of Chicago, are using the IMPROVED HOWE STANDARD SCALES, and after using Fairbanks' and other Scales, do find that the improvements in the HOWE Scale render it the best.
We use a scale severely, and find the HOWE to be the strongest.
We weigh out each day over thirty thousand dollars worth of meat, to the retail markets, in various quantities, and require our large scales to weigh small fractions of a pound.
This merit we have found is alone possessed by the IMPROVED HOWE and is maintained after the most severe and longest tests, being attributable to the patent chilled iron balls between the platform and knife edges, on which all friction is received, thus preserving the fine edge of the pivots on which the correct and delicate action of a scale depends.
We also find the IMPROVED HOWE SCALES the most economical, not needing the frequent repairs that Fairbanks' and other scales do.

WE ARE DAILY RECEIVING LARGE ADDITIONS
To our stock. The extraordinary demand for some of the lines of goods we have been selling at about half value has rendered it necessary for us to duplicate our orders for the goods.
Among the many good bargains we have been offering, nothing has been received with more satisfaction than the line of Black All Wool Cashmeres
Particularly the 90c, $1 and $1.10 numbers. The quantity we have sold of these goods has been unprecedented at this season of the year, and can only be accounted for by the fact that we are offering extraordinary inducements in the price of the goods.
We would also invite the special attention of buyers to our line of Black Alpacas and Mohairs
Of "our own" importation. We are offering bargains that we know are unequalled in this market. We respectfully solicit an examination of goods and price.
OUR ASSORTMENT OF Dress Goods!

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, August 9, 1875.

There was rather more than the usual activity at the banks on Saturday, not merely from current business, but from discount demands. Very small results have thus far been received from the coal sales, —the low price at down river ports having caused many shippers to store their coal. Nor have we enough building to create a demand equal to good times. The relative activity of Saturday was regarded as transient merely, and not as affording a basis for general confidence. Indeed, it is evident that there is less cheerful feeling in mercantile circles in this city than there was a couple of weeks ago. When the present extraordinary weather first began to have serious effects in Europe, and the price of wheat consequently advanced largely here, everybody felt encouraged with the prospect of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 more money being distributed in the West by reason of the rise in the price of grain, and there was at once an increased activity in mercantile trade. But the rainy, cold, miserable weather which has now prevailed so long has had the effect to make the country merchants hold off from buying much of anything lately. In many sections of the country the condition of the growing crops is so precarious that the country merchants are waiting to adjust the scale of their purchases of goods by what the farmers will have to sell, and in others the farmers, being busy with the harvest, are not coming in to the country towns, and, on the whole, trade in the country is very dull. In the city, also, the unusual coldness of the summer has interfered very largely with the sale of all sorts of usual summer goods. In the item of summer clothing especially, every one can tell by his own experience that the demand must have been unusually light. All these things have conspired to make a much less confident feeling in mercantile circles than was apparent three weeks ago, and bankers notice it in the increased applications from their mercantile customers for accommodations to carry them over until the fall trade shall help them out. There was in all parts of the country a disappointment in the spring trade, and now, with but little over three weeks of summer—according to the almanac—it is apparent that there has also been a disappointment in the summer trade. Of course the latter does not compare in importance to the trade of the spring, and especially of the fall, but it has nevertheless had an effect in the last two weeks that is unfavorable.

The New York Journal of Commerce of Monday does not draw a bright picture of the operations of the opening day of the Fall trade. It says:

Cold water dashed the hopes of many to-day. The news of floods out West were by no means encouraging to brisk trade, but rather an inducement for visiting purchasers to pause before loading up with stocks, which, if the anticipated movement in grain does not supervene, might possibly prove troublesome burdens. The storm here was another strong hint to wait awhile. Too dark in the stores for judicious selection of goods, and the streets suggestive of nothing but catarrh, it was no wonder that buyers, who were in no extreme hurry to complete their purchases and depart, should hesitate to expose themselves to the inclement weather. Monday is always a dull day, so many buyers leaving town on Saturday, and not returning till late on the first business day of the week; but to-day was by far the dullest of "blue Mondays" for months. The same story might be repeated with hardly an exception of every branch of business. As a dealer remarked, he has seen good business done on even worse days, but it was not the initiation of trade, but rather the consummation or carrying on of trade already begun. And it is the long-looked for "opening" of the Fall season we have been waiting for. To-day was certainly a poor opportunity for its inauguration. Still, in some lines, something was done.

Archibald Baxter & Co., a well-known shipping and commission firm, doing business at 17 Broadway, suspended payment this afternoon. They state that they were unsuccessful in negotiating their bills of exchange, and are only temporarily embarrassed. This failure caused quite a commotion in Exchange Place and among other grain merchants, with which interest they were closely interested.

Max Heidelbach, of the banking firm of Heidelbach, Frank & Co., is dead.

Gold opened at 113½, declined to 113⅛, and closed at 113⅝. On gold loans the sales were 1 and 1½ per cent. for borrowing and 2 and 1 per cent. for carrying, as well as flat. The specie shipments to-day were $425,583, of which $350,000 was gold coin.

The following is the bank statement:

Loans, increase	$1,526,600
Specie, increase	597,200
Legal tenders, decrease	1,932,700
Deposits, increase	396,700
Circulation, decrease	54,300

Governments closed dull and steady. State bonds are quiet and lower. Railroad bonds were moderately active in late afternoon dealings. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy brought 115½, Chicago & Northwestern consolidated coupon gold bonds 87½, Greatwestern firsts 82, North Missouri 90, and Toledo & Wabash firsts 82. Central Pacific land grant bonds were placed upon the Stock Exchange call to-day, and sold at 96½.

The stock market, which opened dull and declining, closed with a better feeling, at an advance in prices of ⅛ to 1½ per cent. from the lowest point. Western Union and Pacific Mail were the leading features, the former rising to 82⅛ and the latter to 39½. The final sales were 82 and 39. Lake Shore closed at 60⅛, Northwestern at 41½, Rock Island at 105½, and St. Paul at 31½, the highest prices of the day. Ohios were steady at 18⅛@18⅝. The transactions at the Stock Exchange aggregated 45,300 shares, of which 15,000 were Lake Shore, 6,700 Pacific Mail, 8,300 Ohios, and 10,500 Western Union.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

DAILY REPORT OF PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, August 7, 1875.

The weather has been the main subject of discussion for some days past, and, in view of the fact that upon it hinges the saving of the crops, it is not surprising, as it is a matter in which all are interested, and upon which, in a great measure, depends the prosperity of the country. The Breadstuffs market continues very firm and somewhat excited, particularly in the west. A Baltimore exchange says: "Like sending coals to Newcastle, we have heard of some reshipments being made to the west in the past few days of a few lots, though not large, of both Wheat and Flour. So excited are the western grain men over the damage reported to have been sustained by the rainstorms and floods that they are actually giving orders to reship their flour and grain from here in case they cannot get the price they name, which, in most cases, is much above our present market quotations. This feeling, it is thought, will subside when the full amount of damage to the crops is ascertained. It is to be hoped that the reports have been exaggerated, and that we will have a fair crop. The present prices of grain here, as against the lower price on the other side, places it beyond any probability of exporting it with any profit."

BERRIES—Blackberries scarce, and selling at 17a18c per quart. Whortle Berries, 15a16c.

BUTTER—There is a continued steady demand for good table butter, which is scarce, and prices are well maintained; selling at 22a23 for prime to choice solid packed, and 24a25 for prime roll.

BEANS—Navies, $2,15a2,20 per bu.

CHEESE—The market is firm at the advance noted in our last report; prime Ohio Factory, 11½a12.

EGGS—The receipts continue light, and the supply is by no means large, but it is in excess of ptesent requirements, and prices are weak but unchanged; 15a16.

FRUITS—Apples selling at $3,50a4,50 per bbl. Peaches are coming in more freely, but mostly of poor quality and in bad order; good to prime $1,25a1,50 per box. The arrivals by the Connellsville road, on Friday, were 6 cars. Pears and Plums remain as last quoted. Water Melons, 15a20 cents each. Cantelopes, 5a6.

FLOUR—There is a fair demand, and the market is firm at the recent advance, Spring wheat flours, $7a7,50, the outside figure for choice Minnesotas; winters, winters, $7,25a7,50 for red, and $7,75a8 for amber and white. Rye Flour, $6a6,25.

GROCERIES—There is a moderate degree of activity in the grocery trade, although our merchants generally report that they are not crowded with orders. We can report a very fair demand for Sugars, but within the past week prices, especially for refined goods, ruled a shade lower. Coffee quiet but steady, is the tenor of our dispatches both from Baltimore and New York. Stock in first hands in New York, Aug. 5, 48,898 bags; at Baltimore, 16,343 do., at Hampton Roads, 9,413 do. Afloat and loading for New York, 73,400 bags; other ports in the United States, 153,600 do. Total stock and supplies for all ports of the United States, 301,654 bags. The Messrs. Wright & Co.'s telegram, dated Rio, Aug. 4, 1875, advises: Sales since since the 28th ult., 24,000 bags; shipments, 8,000 bags; loading, 71,000 bags; stock at date, 49,000 bags; average daily receipts, 8,400 bags; price, 9 600. GRAIN—The grain markets continue firm, and with stocks very much reduced and continued light receipts, together with considerable inquiry, the recent sharp advance is still maintained, that is for immediate delivery; sales could not be made for forward deliveries at anything like current rates. There is no movement in Wheat in this market, and, in the absence of sales, may be quoted at $1,55a1,60 for Penna and Ohio red, and 3a5c additional for amber and white. The Oat market continues steady at the recent advance, with considerable inquiry and a very light supply; 65a67 for mixed and 68a70 for white. Ear Corn is quotable at 85a87 on track, and shelled at 88a90, free in elevator. Rye is quiet and nominal at $1,10a1,12.

HAY—The supply of baled continues very light, scarcely exual to the demand, and prices are still maintained: quotable at $25a27, on track, for good to prime timothy.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, Aug. 7, 1875.

CRUDE.

The market has been steady for two or three days past, and, as compared with the early part of the week, prices have been advanced 5a7½c per bbl; immediate shipment quoted at $1.18½ per bbl at Parker. Conduit Certificates, 91½c. While it is not expected that there will be any very decided advance, it is hoped that trade will be more satisfactory from this on, and there appears to be a more hopeful feeling in the producing regions.

REFINED.

The market for Refined has also stiffened up considerably within the past few days, in sympathy, to some extent, with the raw article, and there is an improved demand at a slight advance in prices. There were bids at 10¾ for Philadelphia delivery to-day and 11c for August, equal to 8¼a8¾ on cars here. The bulk of the sales here recently have been for Philadelphia delivery, which is owing to the fact that while the cost of transportation is about the same, it is more convenient for the majority of the refiners to ship via. the Penna Railroad.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, August 7.—The general market was quiet. Cotton goods moved slowly. Tickings are lower in some makes. Cotton flannels and plaid cheviots are in good demand. Prints are in fair request for small lots. Woolen dress goods, wool flannels and blankets are improving. Woolen goods for men's wear are dull. The dry goods auction sales commence next week.

PITTSBURGH LIVE STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, August 7, 1875.

ARRIVALS.

Following were the arrivals of live stock at the Pittsburgh Central Stock Yards for the week, and, to afford a comparison, we append those of the corresponding time last week also:

	This week.	Last week.
Cattle	360 cars.	331 cars.
Hogs	124 "	127 "
Sheep	94 "	88 "

FREIGHTS.

To New York	29c per cwt.
To Philadelphia	25c "
To Baltimore	25c "

CATTLE.

The arrivals, as will be seen, were 31 cars in excess of last week; of the 360 cars reported 176 were through consignments and 184 cars local; the sales were 3,265 head, against 3,048 last week. Notwithstanding the supply of yard cattle was liberal, 184 cars, the market was fairly active all through, and while the common and medium grades sold readily at full last week's prices, the finer grades, of which the supply was small and scarcely equal to the demand —brought an advance of 10a15c per cwt. There was a very fair attendance of buyers, and with an active competition, the market ruled in favor of sellers, and to-day there were only two cars remaining unsold. If the weather should continue fine, we look for light receipts during the next week or two, as farmers will be too busily engaged in taking in their crops to think about getting stock to market, and this will be equally applicable to Sheep and Hogs, as well as Cattle. Operators to-day were impressed with the belief that the market the coming week would be fully as good, if not better, than the one just closed.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The run was an average one, but the bulk of the offerings were common in point of quality, and while good, fat stock sold readily at an advance of 15a20c per cwt, as compared with last week, there was no improvement in the lower grades. Some operators reported that the proportion of common was larger than usual this week, and with a decreased supply of prime fat stock and, if anything, an increased demand, holders had no difficulty in selling, and that too, at the improvement noted. One bunch of extra, averaging 102 lbs., brought 5.85, but this was regarded as an extreme price, except for something extra. Prime 100 lb, sheep quotable at 5,60a5,70. Lambs were very dull, and prices, as compared with last week, considerably lower; the eastern markets, it appears, are overstocked, hence the demand was very much curtailed.

HOGS.

The arrivals have been light all week, and with an increasing demand, especially for prime heavy hogs and a limited supply, prices have steadily improved until to-day, as compared with Monday, the advance has been from 25a30c per cwt; and furthermore, the market closes firmer than it opened. Yorkers are also higher, with a continued steady demand; this particular grade of hogs have sold just about as fast as they arrived for several weeks past, so that at no time during the period in question has there been any accumulation, and prices have been well sustained in consequence. The fact is, the market for all grades is holding up much better than was generally expected, particularly as regards prices, which, it was thought a few weeks ago, were destined to rule lower.

FAILURE OF A NEW YORK SLAUGHTERER.

Mr. P. McIntyre, wholesale slaughterer, who for some years past has been one of the largest operators in Texas cattle, stopped payment yesterday with liabilities estimated at $100,000. The statement made a couple of months ago in these columns that the slaughterers were losing money and were on the road to bankruptcy along with the drovers was not pleasing to some of the dealers, who affirmed that it was not true. Since then James Laughran has failed with about $50,000 indebtedness; Heyman Block with $50,000; and P. McIntyre with $100,000. The reported failure of Richard Bellis was an error; he simply stopped the profitless business of slaughtering cattle for Washington market, and took care of his outstanding paper.—Tribune.

Wool.

BOSTON, August 7.—There was a fair business in wool the past week, but for all fine wools prices rule in favor of buyers, while medium fleeces and combing and delaine fleeces sustain full previous prices and are in demand. Fine Ohio fleeces are neglected. The sales of Ohio have been only 67,000 lbs, mostly medium fleeces, at 49c. There was considerable doing in Michigan fleeces, the sales comprising 263,000 lbs, mostly at 44a45c for good average lots. The sales of combing and delaine fleeces for the week were 234,000 lbs, at 52a58½c for washed and 40a44½c for unwashed, if we except a round lot of Kentucky, understood to have been sold at an advance on the latter prices. Manufacturers are supplying themselves quite freely, and are now well stocked. In pulled wools very little is doing. The sales were 100,000 supers and X, principally at 40a50c.

L. A. WELSH,
Sergeant Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was 9 feet 9 inches, a rise of 2 feet 3 inches during the twenty-four hours ending at that time. It was about stationary, however, and it would doubtless fall last night.

THE arrivals since our last include the J. C. Risher, Joe Walton, Belle McGowan, Enterprise, Sam Miller, Diamond, Eagle and Sam Parker.

THE Wild Duck and Arrow passed Cairo on Saturday.

THE Ashland was to have left Cincinnati for this port on Saturday.

THE Fearless will add four barges of coke to her tow at Cincinnati for St. Louis.

THE Ashland is en route from Cincinnati, and will be the next boat out for that point.

THE new steamboats built at Cartersburg, Ky., has been towed to Madison for completion.

THE towboat Oakland left for Freedom on Saturday, where she will be repainted and repaired.

THE Robert Mitchell is laid up at Cincinnati. She will probably be sold before turning another wheel.

CAPT. FRANK Y. BATCHELOR, of the Walnut Street House, Cincinnati, has gone to Boston after his family.

THE new steamer Rosa Miller, Captain Woodburn, will commence loading for Memphis and Arkansas River at once.

THE Joseph H. Bigley departed last evening with a tow of coal, and the J. Sharp McDonald will depart early this morning.

COM. W. F. DAVIDSON has been quite ill at Keokuk for a couple of days past, but he was reported by a telegram to be able to be about on Friday.

HALL & CO., lumber merchants of Louisville, have filed a suit against the Brilliant for $1,800, amount claimed for logs lost by them last Sunday.

THE Exchange departed for Cincinnati on Saturday evening, with a fair freight list and engagements below. Pilots—Henderson and Hamilton.

THE Salt Valley will not be here this week, as she is undergoing repairs at Ironton, including painting, making it necessary for her to lose one trip.

THE John L. Rhoads departed for St. Louis on Saturday evening, with between 500 and 600 tons of freight and a fair number of passengers. Pilots—Alexander and Rowley.

FOLLOWING named towboats were in port last evening: Rosa Miller, and the towboats Rover, Iron Mountain, Ironsides, Sam, Parker, Enterprise, Grand Lake, Eagle, James Gilmore, Boaz, Maggie Smith, Diamond, Stella, Belle McGowan and Jas. A. Blackmore.

THE St. Louis Globe, of Friday, says:—Captain Dave Haney arrived on Wednesday, and brought the Katie P. Kountz with him. He looks very like Spotted Tail. The boat had as freight all that was saved from the wrecks of the Peninah and Sioux City, and a large quantity of hides and furs.

THE Cincinnati Commercial, of Sunday, says:—The barge of coal which was sunk at the trap, was sunk by the John Hanna, and not the N. J. Bigley, as reported. The latter is lying here, awaiting a fall in the river, when she will proceed to Memphis. She has two barges of coal for the Rose Clare lead mine, and twelve barges for Memphis.

CAPT. LEATHERS makes the following statement in reference to the Jones-Pauley condensers to the New Orleans Times: "In 13 trips during 1874 without the condensers, the City of Helena consumed 99,280 bushels of coal and 630¾ cords wood. In 1875, with the condensers, she only consumed in 13 trips 89,026 bushels of coal and 536 cords of wood.

THE Cincinnati Gazette says: The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. built a bridge across the Ohio River to Newport, a few years ago, that was not to be an obstruction to navigation. That bridge, however, has for five days prevented steamers from coming to the city wharf, and they have been compelled to land at the railroad company's property. The railroad company has exacted wharfage from these boats too.

A CAIRO dispatch says:—Pilot Wm. Gupton, who is confined in the jail of this county awaiting trial for the murder of Henry Eischbach, and a fellow prisoner, made an attempt to escape several evenings since, and, when discovered, had the work of boring a hole by removing stones from the jail wall well under way. An extra watch has been placed over them since then. Mr. Jacob Sutler, the wounded engineer, is much worse, and, it is feared, will hardly recover.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch, under date of Thursday, says:—Business continues dull. The Barge Line will send a tow to New Orleans on Saturday, and the John F. Tolle expects to clear for the Crescent City the same day. Com. Kountz is looked for here to-morrow. Receipts of produce are lighter than ever before known at this season of the year, and there is no prospect of an improvement until after the water falls. The remains of Captain T. B. Rhodes were taken to Savannah, Illinois, this evening, for burial.

THE St. Louis Globe, referring to the death of Capt. T. B. Rhoads, says:—Few men were better or more favorably known on the Upper Mississippi, and the reporter has had the pleasure of his acquaintance since he first came on the upper river, as clerk of the steamer Martha, in 1835. Shortly after this he took command of the boat, and has been acting as commander until three years ago. He was one of the original stockholders of the Northern Line Packet Company, which was organized in 1852; was President of that company for two terms, and on the consolidation of the different lines and formation of the Keokuk Northern Line Company he was chosen as Assistant Superintendent. Last year his health commenced failing, and last spring he visited the Hot Springs, and returned a short time ago apparently much improved, and he was on the Levee Tuesday. Yesterday morning, shortly after taking his breakfast, he remarked to his wife: "I believe I am dying"—fell back in his chair a corpse. Few men leave as clear a record as Captain Rhodes; that he was one of God's noblest works, none can gainsay. He leaves a wife and four children; three daughters—two of whom are married—and one son, Mr. Porter Rhodes, a well known clerk in the general freight agent's office of the K. N. Line Packet Company.

SUNDAY'S Cincinnati Commercial has the following: Ashland departs for Pittsburgh on Monday, when she can pass under the Newport bridge. The Utah, from St. Louis, passed up, with 500 tons of pig iron, and the J. T. Mercer with empty barges, for Pittsburgh. Captain Owen Finegan, of Mobile, has purchased the iron steamer John T. Moore for $30,000, for the Alabama river trade. The John T. Moore was built at Cincinnati by Alex. Swift, and originally cost $80,000. The Moore was to have left New Orleans last night for Mobile. Thomas Sherlock—one-sixth—was sold by the Sheriff yesterday morning, to Thomas Sherlock, Esq., for $4,500. Other considerations connected with the sale would make the interest worth $6,000, or $36,000 for the entire steamer....Smith & Gilligan, of Charlestown, West Virginia, had $80,400 worth of logs in the Elk river when that stream commenced to rise. All were broken loose from their moorings, and floated off. Only ten per cent. of them will be recovered....The Tom Rees No. 2 burst her steam pipe at Parkersburg on Monday, and Andy McRoberts, the engineer, made a narrow escape from instant death. The steam-pipe burst near the throttle-valve. McRoberts luckily left it a moment before the explosion occurred....Captain James Rees, Jr., leaves for Pittsburgh on Monday night, by rail....Commodore W. F. Davidson writes from Keokuk that he is still confined to his room, but his sickness is not of a dangerous character.

HOME NEWS.

The Gazette for the Summer.

Persons leaving the city for the summer can have the Daily GAZETTE sent to them by mail, by leaving their orders at the counting-room.

Attempted Suicide.

August Kreuter, while intoxicated, attempted to drown himself yesterday morning in the Monongahela river, at the foot of McCully's glass house, just below Smithfield street bridge. Before succeeding he was arrested by officer Fees and lodged in jail.

A Clerk's Theft.

Yesterday morning, a Penn street druggist awakened to the fact that during the night a confidential clerk had taken a walk, along with one hundred and fifty dollars of his employers money. Detective Sam. Long was on the track of the thief yesterday, but had not apprehended him up to a late hour last night.

What is Wrong?

For several nights past a couple of United States Detectives have been carefully watching the general entrances of the Custom House building. They refuse to be interviewed, but judiciously cast their eyes to the right or the left whenever a pedestrian approaches. Let us hope the country is not in danger.

The Morning Hearing.

Mayor McCarthy had quite an array of Saturday night "rounders" to dispose of yesterday morning. The majority got off with "a dollar and costs." The following were committed. Thomas Best, disorderly conduct, five days; Mary Conners, Mollie Oliver, Maggie Conway, A. Orth, and Michael Shannon got ten days each on a similar charge.

Drowned.

A young man named Peter Driscoll, sixteen years of age, was accidentally drowned in the Monongahela river yesterday morning about eleven o'clock. He was rowing in a skiff when he became entangled among some coal barges and in his effort to get away he upset his craft and was tossed into the river. His body had not been recovered at last accounts.

Burglary.

The room on the second story of DeRoy's pawn office on Smithfield street, near Sixth avenue, was entered yesterday morning at an early hour by a burglar. The fellow gained admission by breaking open a rear door leading to an unoccupied bed chamber. He captured an opera glass, a lace cape and a pair of new pantaloons. The latter he put on before leaving the room, forgetting his own old pair behind him. He has not been arrested as yet, but the pantaloons left in the apartment may lead to his identity.

The Diamond Robbery.

On Saturday morning there was a hearing before Mayor McCarthy in the case of Wm. Clark and Henry Myers, held on suspicion of being concerned in the robbery of the thousand dollars from John Rowan, the Butler county scrap iron dealer, which occurred at Schrank's boarding house in the Diamond on Friday morning last. Myers was discharged and Clark was held for a further hearing. The police are of the opinion that the man who did take the money is one Thomas Broslin who is missing. No clue to his whereabouts has been developed as yet.

Killed by the Cars.

As the 4:20 McKeesport accommodation train, on the Connellsville Railroad, was passing Saltsburg on Friday afternoon it struck an old man named John Houston, who was walking along the track, and hurled him down an embankment. The train was immediately stopped, and the unfortunate man carried to his house, near by, where he died at about eight o'clock in the evening. The deceased was about 66 years old, and lived by himself at Saltsburg. 'Squire Russel, of Braddock's held an inquest on Saturday and the jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Pay Your Toll.

On Saturday night a man named Thomas Kennedy, who was driving a carriage, and was somewhat intoxicated, started to cross the Chestnut street bridge from Allegheny to this city, without paying toll. He was brought to a stand by the toll collector before he had gone any distance on the bridge, when he offered in payment an advertising circular, which was printed in imitation of a two dollar note. The collector, of course, refused that, and called officer Armstrong, who locked him up. Yesterday morning he was fined one dollar and costs by Mayor Phillips, of Allegheny.

"Conscience Fund" Acknowledgment.

The following is a copy of a letter sent by a resident of Pittsburgh to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington City, enclosing fifty dollars, to be placed in the "conscience fund," already noticed in our Washington dispatches, and which has been transmitted to us for publication, in accordance with the request of the sender:

"PITTSBURGH, August 3, 1875.

"Hon. U. S. Treasurer, Washington, D. C.—Dear Sir: Enclosed please find the sum of fifty dollars (Second National Bank, Pittsburgh, note No. 571,729) which please place to the credit of the United States, being amount due for income tax not heretofore paid. Place the same in the "conscience fund;" and please acknowledge receipt through the Pittsburgh GAZETTE.

"Truly yours,

($50.) "CONSCIENCE."

Runaway Accident.

Yesterday morning a horse attached to a spring wagon came dashing out of Erin street into Centre avenue, and rushed along that thoroughfare at lightning speed. Mr. Joseph Urban was driving along the avenue in a phaeton at the time. Seeing the runaway animal coming toward him and scraping the tree-boxes on the side of the avenue that Mr. Urban was driving on, he jumped from the phaeton to the ground. Along came the runaway horse, but instead of running into Mr. Urban's vehicle, as he anticipated, it shied to one side and the horse struck him, knocking him down and injuring him severely. He was picked up and taken to his home, where a physician is attending him.

THE DILWORTH FAILURE.

Liabilities $300,000 and Assets $400,000—The Cause.

Mr. Wm. Dilworth, Jr., one of the best known lumber merchants of Pittsburgh, and a gentleman who has always occupied a high position in the business community, failed on Saturday to the extent of $300,000, but he expects to pay his creditors every dollar he owes them. He is said to be preparing a voluntary petition for an adjudication in bankruptcy, preferring that method of reaching a settlement to seeking an extension. The latter, it is thought, would involve too much time and trouble and a probability, should his creditors not be satisfied, of his substance being wasted in the courts. By the first resort he expects to meet dollar for dollar, and, it is stated, to shortly resume business with a clearer prospect. His failure is directly attributed to the dullness of the trade in lumber for the two seasons last past, very few buildings going up and material being consequently in limited demand. Mr. D. is known as one of the oldest lumber dealers in the city, having been identified with the trade for about thirty-six years. In addition to a large stock of lumber on hand, he holds considerable real estate, which, in more flourishing times, would exceed his liabilities by several hundred thousand dollars. He is now engaged in making out a statement for his counsel, preparatory to entering into a composition with his creditors.

HOMICIDE IN MIFFLIN.

A Bar-Room Affray—A Fatal Blow.

On Saturday night a number of miners had a dispute at Furness' tavern, in Mifflin township, a short distance from the city, which resulted in the death of a man named David W. Thomas, a Welshman. The particulars received thus far are meagre. We are informed that a dispute took place at the tavern in relation to some minor matter, during which a man named Wm. Jenkins struck Thomas a blow on the head, which caused him to fall. Not rising again several of his companions took hold of him, when, to their horror, he was found to be dead. Martin Gwines, of Mifflin, immediately crossed the river, and proceeding to McKeesport, made information before Justice J. H. Berry, against Jenkins, charging him with homicide. The accused was arrested and after a hearing was committed to jail for trial at Court. He was brought to the city yesterday morning on the church train, and safely landed in the County jail.

LATER.

Since the above was written, we learn the following additional particulars: Furness' tavern is near Dravosburg; Jenkins and Thomas were talking about women, when Thomas said something derrogatory of Mrs. Jenkins. No sooner were the words uttered than Jenkins struck Thomas a blow on the neck, which broke it, and he fell, dying instantly. The parties had been good friends before, but at the time of the dispute both were slightly under the influence of liquor.

COURT NOTES.

In the Court of Common Pleas No. 2, on Saturday, T. B. Patterson, attorney for Jno. J. Davis, applied for an injunction on the Mayor, Controller and City Treaurer of the City of Pittsburgh, to restrain them from paying the Controller his quarterly salary of $1,000, now due. The complainant alleges that the legal salary is $2,500 instead of $4,000. The Court declined to issue a preliminary injunction at once and fixed Thursday, September 2d, as the time for a hearing.

Judge Ewing appointed Drs. Joseph Stevenson, W. J. Gilmore and F. A. Rex, a committee to examine J. F. Withington, who desires a diploma guaranteeing him the right to practice medicine. This appointment and examination is made in accordance with the act of April 12, 1875.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions Dr. J. A. Reed, Superintendent of the Dixmont Hospital for the Insane, presented papers certifying that Jonathan McCarrihen, who was committed June 24, 1874, and A. W. Liddell, committed August 1, 1874, have been restored to reason, and the Court ordered their discharge. On the 7th of June last Wm. Ferry, confined in the Western Penitentiary for horse-stealing in Washington county, was sent to Dixmont by order of the Court, on the grounds of insanity. Dr. Reed certified that he had been restored to a sane condition, and the Court ordered the Sheriff to transfer him to the Western Penitentiary to serve out the unexpired term of his sentence.

On Saturday Mr. Jno. J. Gallagher waived a hearing before U. S. Commissioner McCandless and entered $500 bail for trial at the next term of the U. S. District Court, on a charge of having snatched a letter from Jno. Peeples, a carrier, while he was taking it from a box on his route. It seems that the defendant suspected the letter of containing matter that might have a disastrous effect upon his domestic felicity, and thought it would be best for him to ascertain its contents before it reached his household.

PENNED FOR LIFE.

Ambrose Lynch Transferred from the Jail to the Penitentiary—What He Saw, and His Conduct on the Way.

Ambrose E. Lynch, who was tried and found guilty of the murder of Wm Hadfield, and sentenced to death, but whose sentence was recently commuted by the Board of Pardons to imprisonment for life, was removed from the county jail on Saturday to the Western Penitentiary. An order directing the transfer was received by Sheriff Hare in the morning, and when he took it to Lynch in his cell he remarked that it was a much more pleasant duty for him to be able to present a paper of that character than one with a black seal upon it. Lynch replied that he considered himself a very fortunate man, but that if the paper had been his death warrant, he never would have been taken to the scaffold anyhow. He said he had that all arranged beforehand. The Sheriff told Lynch to be ready at half-past two o'clock, when he would take him over in a carriage but Lynch strongly insisted on being allowed to walk, and the Sheriff yielded to his request. He said he had been in jail three years now, and he wanted a little exercise, and would like to see some of the improvements that had been made in the city since he retired. At the appointed hour the prisoner, with wrists manacled and Deputy Sheriff Diehl at his side, started from the jail down Fifth avenue on their walk to the Penitentiary. Immediately behind them were Sheriff Hare and Deputy Harrison. The first thing that seemed to strike Lynch's attention was the width of Fifth avenue, which he though considerably smaller than it is. The new Robert's building, at the corner of Market street and Fifth avenue, he noted with pleasure. While crossing the Suspension bridge Lynch, who had been looking a little shaky about the knees, suddenly exclaimed: "My God, Deihl, this sun is weakening me; I am getting awful weak." He felt then as if he would like to have a drink, but of course this was out of the question, and after a few moments he seemed to improve. After crossing the bridge the first thing that attracted his attention, and, indeed, struck him with astonishment, was the Germania beer garden. He was shocked. It must be remembered that when Lynch went to jail the old Robinson homestead stood intact on the bank of the river, but within these three years past the old mansion has been pulled down, a circus has occupied the lot, and now while a huge brick block of storehouses occupies one side of the grounds, the bank of the river is devoted to a beer-garden. These innovations filled Lynch with amazement, and he was for going in to examine the beer garden, but the officers would not permit that. Nothing further of any importance occurred until the prisoner passed behind the walls of the Penitentiary unless we except his expression of astonishment at not finding a new depot on the neglected site on Federal street, near the present depot of the Fort Wayne railroad. After being taken into the office of the Penitentiary, Lynch was put through the same examination that other prisoners are obliged to undergo. He was stripped and the clerk noted down his size, age, color of hair, and he was examined for scars and marks upon his body. When that was through he was numbered and escorted to his cell there to remain until he dies or is pardoned. This is the first instance of the commutation of a death sentence to imprisonment for life since the adoption of the new Constitution. Under the old Constitution there could be no commutation of a death sentence. The prisoner had to be either hung or pardoned.

PYTHIAN.

Great Western Lodge Visits Energetic Lodge in Temperanceville—Presentation of Jewels, &c.

Great Western Lodge, No. 345, Knights of Pythias, some time ago gave a pic-nic and offered, as a prize, a set of jewels to the lodge that would sell the most tickets. The successful competitors for the jewels were the members of Energetic Lodge, of the Thirty-sixth ward, South Side. Saturday evening was fixed upon for the ceremonies attending the presentation. Accordingly, almost one hundred Knights of Great Western Lodge, the majority of them in their handsome uniforms, left Pythian Hall, on Fifth avenue and Market street, and, preceded by the Centennial band, of eighteen pieces, marched to the ferry landing, foot of Penn street, and boarding the boat were soon afloat, the band playing "What are the Wild Waves Saying?" in excellent style. Arriving on the South Side, the visitors were met by the members of Energetic Lodge and the line of march was taken, and eventually Odd Fellows' Hall was reached. Here every seat was occupied by the good people of the Thirty-sixth ward, and their wives and daughters. The stage, which was handsomely festooned for the occasion, was devoted to the band and the speakers of the evening.

The large assemblage was called to order by P. C., W. C. Stevens, who, in a few well chosen remarks, heartily welcomed the visitors, and then introduced Sir Knight S. P. Fulton, Esq., who made the presentation address. The gentleman spoke for over half an hour in an eloquent and appropriate manner, and then handed the jewels to the care of Energetic Lodge. P. C. Williams made the reception address, and during it gave a brief sketch of the rise and progress of the Pythian order in America, concluding with some complimentary remarks for the donors. Addresses were then made by Sir Knights T. G. Sample, Philip Weaver, P. C., Mayhart, P. C. Shane, P. C., Joseph Brennelly and others, the ceremonies closing by the singing, by all the Sir Knights present, of one of their farewell odes. The occasion was a very happy one throughout, and reflected great credit upon the gentlemen who managed it so successfully.

The undersigned has used Dr. HARRIS' SUMMER CORDIAL, and can bear unqualified testimony to its happy and immediate effects in relieving pain and curing disease.

Of the whites there were males, 756; females, 678. Of the colored, 35 of each sex, which shows a slight advantage in favor of being a female if you belong to the white race, and even chances if of African descent. Of the whole number there were under two years of age, 549, and between 90 and 100 years only 6.

....General Superintendent McCargo, of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, has just placed on the road a new and elegant passenger coach to be used between this city and Chautauqua. The interior of the car is neat and elegant, being finished in curly maple and walnut wood, with rich upholstery, the blinds for the windows being on self-acting springs, and are entirely new features. In the center of the carriage is located the saloons, and a neat stand for washing and dressing. It certainly reflects credit on the Allegheny Valley Railroad that the traveling public is thus furnished coaches combining many of the advantages of drawing room cars without extra charges.

....The following system has been adopted by the Pennsylvania Railroad company to prevent alleged peculation on the part of passenger conductors. Each conductor is supplied with a leather satchel, or box, suspended from the shoulder by a broad leather strap with buckles and slides. The satchel has two compartments, one for tickets, the other for books, blanks, &c. The first is locked, at the starting terminus, has an aperture for the reception of tickets, and is not accessible to the conductor. The passenger drops his ticket, when directed by the conductor, into the bag. New uniforms are being made for the conductors. The coats will button-up to the chin, have standing collars, with P. R. R. thereon, and will have no pockets.

Captain John G. Butler passed through the city Sunday morning, on his way to Cincinnati, with the remains of his nephew Ormond, a lad eleven years of age, who was drowned on Wednesday, July 28th, by falling from the dock at Governor's Island, in the harbor of New York. Deceased was a son of Richard A. and Lydia H. Butler, of Cincinnati, and grandson of the late Major, John B Butler and John D. Davis, of this city. The afflicted parents had returned home a week ago with but little hopes of recovering the body.

CRIME IN THE CITY.

Brief Mention of Petty Criminalities.

THERE were twenty-four cases before Mayor McCarthy yesterday morning.

SHORTLY before midnight officer Maloney brought Louisa Roe, white, and Mary Thomas, colored, to the lock-up on a charge of being drunk at the corner of Webster avenue and Washington street.

ANDREW WAGNER is in the lock-up awaiting a hearing this morning on a charge of being a suspicious person. Forty-five dollars and a key were the assets found on his person. Andrew is supposed to have stolen $115 from Dr. J. G. Steinhauser, a boarder at the St. James Hotel. The matter will be investigated this morning.

MORRIS AND COULTER MATCHED.

The Contest to Take Place September 11th—Articles of Agreement Signed—Saturday Evening's Tub Race—The Toledo Victory of the Duquesne Crew.

Eph. Morris and Henry Coulter met on Saturday evening, at the saloon of Frank Byrne, on Irwin avenue, Allegheny, and signed articles to row a five mile boat race on the 11th of next month for $500 a side and the championship of America. Both men were accompanied by a number of friends, but the meeting was quiet and friendly and the two principals entirely avoided a display of that captiousness and desire to stick on trifles that has characterized so many attempts in Pittsburgh to arrange boating contests. The article of agreement is as follows:

We, Henry Coulter and Evan Morris, do hereby agree to row a five-mile race, two and a half miles to a buoy and return, for five hundred dollars a side, open to one thousand dollars, and the championship of America, on Saturday, the 11th day of September, 1875, between the hours of four and five o'clock P. M. Second—The said race to take place upon a course to be mutually agreed upon, within twenty miles of the city, in a week from date. Third—The men to start at the word "go," said word to be given by the referee, said referee to be chosen upon the night of posting the last deposit. Fourth—The first deposit of one hundred dollars a side to be put up upon signing articles; two hundred dollars a side on the 21st of August, and two hundred dollars a side on the 4th of September. The said money to be placed in the hands of Mr. Robt. Liddell, who shall be final stakeholder. Fifth—Smooth water shall be required for the race, the referee to be the judge of the water. If the water should be too rough on the day specified, the race shall be rowed upon the first fair day following, Sunday excepted. Sixth—Any boat swerving from a direct course to impede the progress of the other boat shall be ruled out. Seventh—The leading boat becomes entitled to the other boat's water when clear water is shown between them. Eighth—There shall be two buoys, each man to turn his buoy from right to left, said buoys to be placed thirty yards apart. The men to toss for choice of position two hours before the race takes place. Ninth—Time shall be taken when the stern of the winning boat crosses the line. Tenth—The second and last deposits to be placed in the hands of the stakeholder, at Henderson's, No. 1 Diamond street, upon the evenings specified, between the hours of eight and ten P. M. Should either party fail to make the deposits at the times mentioned they shall forfeit the money already put up. Eleventh—The decision of the referee shall be final in all things pertaining to the race.

HENRY COULTER,
EVAN MORRIS.

FRANK BRYNES, }
WM. COATES, } Witnesses.

After the articles were signed, the first deposit of $100 a side was placed in the hands of Frank Byrne, who had been chosen temporary stakeholder, and the match was perfected. It is likely that a course will be chosen by next Saturday.

In our telegraphic columns will be found a dispatch stating that parties in Boston have offered to back Eph Morris to the amount of $1,000 in a race against John Biglin, for the championship of the United States. John Shea has made a deposit of $200 in behalf of Morris.

The tub race on the Allegheny river, on Saturday evening, from the Hand street to the Suspension bridge, was witnessed by a very large crowd of spectators, who lined the walks of both bridges and the shores of the river. The entries were Thomas Riley, A. Graham, T. Smith, Joe O'Brien, and John Wetzell. The race commenced about six o'clock, and lasted some eight or ten minutes. O'Brien won the first prize of $15, Riley the second of $10, and Wetzell the third of $5. Riley not being satisfied with the result of the race, has challenged O'Brien to another contest next Saturday evening, over the same course, for $15 a side.

At the regatta of the Northwestern Amateur Rowing Association, at Toledo, on Saturday, the four oared shell race was won by the Duquesne crew, of Pittsburgh, in nineteen minutes, thirty-one and two-fifths seconds. Wahwah Seems, of Saginaw city, Michigan, two lengths behind. The Chicago scullers four, composed of Yates, Curtis, Carving and Montgomery, sold as the favorites in the pools, but when half way down the mile and a half stretch Curtis broke his seat, and the boat had to pull out of the race. The Wahwah Seems had pulled in the senior race six hours before, else the result might have been different.

JOHNSTON'S TROUBLES.

How He Increased His Services to the County.

Among the cases disposed of by Mayor McCarthy, on Saturday afternoon, was that of Henry Johnston. Henry is a jovial sort of lad his way, and has evidently taken the world just as it turned around to him. While pedestrinating Fifth avenue, on Saturday afternoon, a pair of new shoes rolled under his arm. A policeman met him and asked him where the foot coverings came from. He could not tell, and, as a result, was taken to the Central station house as a suspicious character. At four o'clock he was awarded a hearing and as he could not explain satisfactorily about the shoes he was sentenced to an imprisonment of sixty days as a suspicious person. On his way back to his cell he assaulted the turnkey in a diabolical manner, and for this offense was granted another hearing and was sentenced to thirty days additional imprisonment. Once again in his cell he sent for the man that owned the shoes. No sooner did the latter present himself in the presence of the prisoner than he knocked him down and retired to his cell again. Another hearing was the result, and this time Johnston got sixty days more added to his list. This ended his career for the present, and this morning he goes to Claremont for one hundred and fifty days, otherwise five months, unless he pays fines amounting to $133.25 which is not altogether probable.

A SAD DROWNING.

A Mother's Tears—Her Appeal in Vain.

On Saturday morning a little boy named Willie Smith, with several companions, got into a skiff at the Allegheny end of the Hand street bridge for a row. They had not proceeded farther than the second pier of the structure, when by some accident Smith was thrown out of the boat. His companions were so terribly alarmed that they made no effort to rescue him, and before they arrived at what was the proper thing to do in the premises, little Willie had gone forever. Frightened as they were, they at once rowed to shore and informed the boy's mother of the accident. As may be imagined, it made the poor woman almost demented. She left her house and going to the wharf remained there almost the entire day calling for her Willie and receiving no response. It was a late hour when the loving mother's friends induced her to return to her home, there to vent her grief. The body was not recovered.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Five Children and Three Men Injured in the Allegheny Park.

On Saturday evening, about six o'clock, a runaway occurred in Allegheny which resulted in the injury of quite a number of persons, and for a time created considerable excitement. At the time mentioned a young man named Ray, with a friend, were driving along Stockton avenue, near the foot of Arch street, Allegheny, when the horse was frightened by the whistling of a locomotive on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago railroad, and shied to one side of the street, so that the front axle of the buggy was broken, and both the occupants of the vehicle thrown out and badly bruised. The horse then dashed ahead, and ran to the east side of Federal street, where it leaped over the fence into the Park, tearing the fence down and smashing the buggy. The frightened animal ran on through the park to the lower side of the fountain at the foot of East Diamond street, at which place there were two benches, on which were seated six little children, none of whom were over seven years, and an old man named Higginbottom. Before they had time to get out of the horse's way it had struck the benches, smashing them both to pieces and scattering their occupants on the grass. A number of persons ran to the assistance of the children and the old man, and four or five of the children were found insensible, and all but one more or less injured. Two of them, sons of Mr. W. Martin, proprietor of a shoe store on Federal street, appeared to be the most seriously injured. They were at once removed to their home and Dr. Shillito summoned. Another little one, son of Officer Craven of the police force, was taken home and attended by Dr. Ure. A little son of Mr. Carson, grocer on Federal street, and two little children of Mr. Brown's, who reside on Stockton avenue, one of whom was injured, were also taken to their homes and medical aid summoned. Strange to say not one of the persons mentioned had a bone fractured or received a worse injury than a bruise, except the old gentleman, Higgenbotham, who had one of his legs quite seriously injured. In a few hours all the little ones were able to be about again, except one of Mr. Martin's sons, who it was feared would not survive the shock, and who remained insensible until yesterday morning, but last evening he was in a very favorable condition. Exactly how the horse succeed in completely demolishing the two benches without more seriously injuring or killing their occupants no one is able to tell.

IN THE WOODS.

Castle Shannon Camp Meeting.

The services yesterday were opened at 9 o'clock A. M. by holding a prayer meeting for an hour, then followed the "love feast." The public service was opened at 11 o'clock. Rev. Collier, D. D., delivered the morning discourse from Galatians, VI. 14.

At 1:30 P. M. a service was held in German under the direction of Rev. Fogle, which appeared to be greatly enjoyed by the Germans present.

A prayer meeting was held at 2 o'clock, which was conducted by Rev. Brown. A ladies prayer meeting was held in the "Bethel cottage" under the direction of Mrs. Rev. Mayall, which was quite successful.

The three o'clock discourse was delivered by T. H. Colhour, of this city. His text was Deuteronomy, XXXII. 31, in which he presented the certainty of a saving knowledge in its moral influence and power; in its superiority over infidelity, and its adaptation to the wants of a ruined race. Another prayer meeting was held at 6:30 P. M., which lasted for an hour. Rev. J. H. Hill, President of the Conference, preached the evening sermon from Hebrews, VII. 25. He described the means of salvation. The soul is saved only through the mediations of Christ. The music, which was under the supervision of H. B. Lewis, Esq., was excellent. The audience was very large, but notwithstanding this the best of order prevailed throughout the day. Three thousand four hundred and seventy-three tickets of admission were sold during the day. The total amount of buggies and wagons admitted were three hundred and sixty-one. Five thousand dollars has been expended recently in improving the grounds. The most important feature noticed, is the canopy which extends back from the main stand seventy-two feet, and is forty-one feet in width. The boarding hall has also been enlarged and remodeled. Many other improvements have been added which we have not room to notice this morning. The meeting will be continued until after next Sabbath. There will be three sermons each day, with prayer, experience and conference meetings. After the three o'clock P. M. public service to-day the communion service will be held.

DANGER POINTS.

High and Low Water at Points on the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers.

The Chief Signal Officer of the War Department has issued a pamphlet giving the range between high and low water marks on the various rivers and the depth at which they are considered dangerous to commercial interests, from which we condense the following of interest to our river men and others:

The river was the highest at Pittsburgh in 1832 and the lowest in 1868—when there but three inches in the channel, range 34.42 feet—zero gauge being the bed of the river. The danger point above zero is given at twenty feet. A sudden rise of either river is dangerous to merchandize on the banks.

At Morgantown, West Va., the Monongahela was highest in 1852 and lowest the same year—range 33.70—gauge bed of river.

At New Geneva, Pa., on Monongahela river, highest water in 1852 and lowest in 1854—range 36.57, four feet water in the channel.

At Oil City, on the Allegheny river, the highest water was in 1865, and the lowest in 1873—range 16.50, one foot bed of river. One foot six inches on this guage is equivalent to one foot six inches of water on "Charlie's Riffle's," the shallowest point between that place and Pittsburgh.

At Freeport, the river was highest in 1865 and lowest in 1868—range 31.42, danger line twelve feet.

At Confluence, the river was highest in 1873 and lowest the same year—range 14.00, zero gauge one foot six inches above low water.

AN UNFORTUNATE.

Charge Against a Policeman.

On Saturday night a man named Carroll who resides at the foot of Twentieth street, Twelfth ward, neared his home under the influence of liquor. A crowd of children followed the man as he passed down the street toward his home. They threw stones and "clinkers" at him until he stepped into his own door. Then his daughter appeared and reproved the crowd for their conduct. While the lady was speaking, her father came out again and then patrolman A. J. Cochran appeared and took the old man into custody. As the officer was dragging him away the daughter interfered and begged of Mr. Cochran to let her take him into the house again. Cochran obdurate, however, and determined to take his man in. Then the daughter clung to the father and, as alleged, the officer struck her a blow with his mace that cut her head and caused the blood to flow all over the front of her dress. The old man was taken to the lock-up and subsequently the daughter appeared before Alderman Moreland and made an information against Cochran, charging him with aggravated assault and battery, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Yesterday morning Mayor McCarthy committed Carroll to the Work House for thirty days.

Technical Knowledge.

A Dubuque medical student has come to grief by reason of his remarkable technical knowledge. The young woman to whom he was attached one morning received the following note: "Dear Angeline—I am sorry to inform you that in consequence of a circumscribed subentaneous inflammation, characterized by a pointed postular tumor suppurating in the centre of a curunculous, I am unable to enjoy the pleasure of your company to the hippodrome. Ever, dearest, thine—Augustus." She read it; she rushed to his home in an agony of apprehension, and found that he had only one of those things of which Job had so many. When she returned home her sensible mother told her that she had better drop that erudite young man; if married, he would doubtless beggar his family by buying Latin Dictionaries and such. The maternal advice was followed, and now A. suffers from something worse than curunculus.

A STRANGE ELOPEMENT.

A Long Island Heiress Running Away With a Colored Servant—A Charm to Catch Young Girls—The Lovers Arrested.

Mrs. Broucher, a widow, of Deer Park, Long Island, adopted a little girl several years ago, and educated her. The girl is now about seventeen years old, and was to have inherited nearly all of Mrs. Broucher's real and personal estate, estimated at about $40,000. Mrs. Broucher employed a young colored man named Chauncey Brewster. He has a lighter complexion and straighter hair than most negroes, and is considered handsome. Last Saturday night she discharged him, paying him $4.50 that she owed him, and this was all the money he had.

On Sunday night the girl started for church, accompanied by another girl. They were going to different churches, and separated after they had gone a short distance together. Miss Broucher did not reach the church. On the way she met Brewster, the colored boy, and they talked a few minutes. That night she did not go home, nor the next day, and on Tuesday Mrs. Broucher learned that her adopted daughter had eloped with Brewster, and that they were living with a colored family named Jackson, in Amityville.

Brewster and the girl were found in Jackson's house, and were taken before Justice Cooper. Brewster said that on Sunday night they walked from Babylon to Amityville. It rained hard, and they were wet through. He went to his mother's house, but she refused to receive the girl, and they stayed under a tree until 3 o'clock in the morning. Then they saw a light in Jackson's house, and went in. Brewster's defense was that the girl went with him of her own will. The testimony brought out a supposed charm that the Babylon negroes have to catch girls with. They take a four-ounce bottle, put in nine pins and ten needles, some of their own and the girl's hair, and fill it with water on the first day of each month. Brewster, it was charged, had used this charm on the girl, and his bottle was shown in Court. A negro employed by Mr. Sinthard found a similar bottle in one of his wagons, he said, and his black boy told him what it was for. The boy, when put upon the stand, denied this. Other witnesses testified that they had seen the girl run up to Brewster in the house and kiss him. It is believed that there is no law under which they can be punished.

They communicate with each other by means of signs, writing, &c., and manage to get along among themselves almost as well and perhaps more peacably than families who have power of all their senses. The parents were both educated in a deaf and dumb asylum, are quite intelligent, and beautiful writers. The father is at present engaged in the shoemaking business, and is educating his children in the same institution that he and his wife attended many years ago.—Beaver Argus and Radical.

A Triumph Over Humbug.

The constant gain in popularity of the national remedy and preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the rapid decline of the fermented and nauseous rubbish feebly bolstered up by a false temperance cry, exemplifies a grand triumph of genuine merit over rampant humbug at which honest folks rejoice. And well they may; for each accession of popularity to a remedy which cures and prevents intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaints, urinary troubles, uterine weakness and general debility, widens the field of its beneficent operations and is a direct gain to humanity, while every falling off in public favor of a pernicious compound, powerless for good but powerful for evil, is a blessing quite as unmistakable, but for a reason very different. Let humbug for once hide its diminished head. Would it were always as unsuccessful as in the present instance.
